Part 1: About Ensurity Super

Your super is not only one of the most important investments you can make in your lifetime, it is also one of the most tax-effective ways to invest for your retirement. Making regular contributions to your super will go a long way towards realising your dreams of financial independence in retirement.

Ensurity Super offers you three Account types to suit your life stages.

Super

During your working life, you add to your Account via different types of contributions including employer, personal and government contributions, if eligible. You will probably stay in this stage the longest period

Transition to Retirement Pension

While still working, you can draw down on some of your super benefits to supplement your income when you reach your preservation age.¹ By doing this, you can reduce your working hours while maintaining your lifestyle.

Pension

When you reach your preservation age and have permanently retired², or you reach age 65 or meet another condition of release, you can open a Pension Account where you can enjoy tax free investment earnings and capital gains within your super.

Investment Options

Ensurity Super offers you the choice of investing in Investment Options including a Cash Hub, Managed Funds, Managed Account Model Portfolios and ASX Listed Securities available through the Managed Account, and Term Deposits. The complete list of investments available via Ensurity Super can be found in the Investment Menu on the Secure Online Portal. Please refer to Part 5 “How we invest your money” for more details about the Ensurity Super Investment Options and how they work.

¹ Please refer to Table 3 in Part 2 “How super works” for your preservation age which is dependent on your date of birth

² “Permanently retire” means you do not work in paid employment (gainfully employed) for more than 10 hours per week.

Insurance Cover

Ensurity Super offers life insurance cover including, Death, Total and Permanent Disablement (TPD), and Salary Continuance through:

- Group Insurance (including default cover and voluntary cover), or

Contributing to your Super Account

You can add to your super through:

- contributions – the various types of contributions that can be made and the age, eligibility restrictions and contribution limits (called contribution caps) that apply, are discussed in more detail below, and
- rollovers – benefits you transfer from another complying superannuation fund. Please refer to page 19 for more information.

Table 1 summarises your eligibility to contribute to super under the current law, depending on your age and the type of contribution you, your employer or your spouse may make on your behalf. Table 2 provides a more detailed description of the different types of contributions.

Your circumstances	Employer contributions		Voluntary contributions			Rollovers
	SG and Award	Salary Sacrifice	Personal	Spouse ¹	Downsizer ¹
Age under 67, working or not working	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓
Age 67 to 74 both inclusive	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓
Age 75 or older	✓	✗	✗	✗	✓	✓

Notes:

- Individuals aged 67 to 74 years (inclusive) will be able to make or receive non-concessional or salary sacrifice contributions, subject to existing contributions caps. Further, the bring-forward arrangements allowing individuals to contribute up to $330,000 of non-concessional contributions in a financial year also apply.
- However, for individuals 67 to 74 years old wishing to claim a personal superannuation deduction for their contribution will still need to meet the work test. That is, you must work at least 40 hours over a 30-day period in the relevant financial year.
- For individuals 67 to 74 years old there is no change to the way they lodge their notice of intent to claim or vary a personal super contribution deduction or lodge their income tax return.
- The eligibility age to make a downsizer contribution is aged 55 years or older.
- You can make a voluntary personal contribution provided it is received by the Fund within 28 days of the date on which you turn 75.

¹ Other eligibility criteria apply and refer to the Australian Taxation Office ("ATO") website ato.gov.au for more information.

Types of Contributions

Table 2 – From 1 July 2022

Contribution type	Detail
Employer contributions
Super Guarantee (SG) contributions	In most cases, your employer is required, by law, to contribute a percentage of your 'ordinary time earnings base' to your super (called the super guarantee (SG)), up to the 'maximum super contribution base' amount. SG contributions are made usually in addition to your salary. In some cases, your employer may be required to pay contributions under an award or other industrial agreement (award contributions). SG contributions are required to be paid to an eligible employee. An eligible employee is someone who is aged 18 and over. If you are under the age of 18, you also need to be working over 30 hours per week to be entitled to SG contributions. No upper age restrictions apply to SG and award contributions. The current SG rate for 2022-2023 financial year is 10.5%. Details on SG rates can be found on the Secure Online Portal in the Super caps, rates, and thresholds fact sheet. The SG rate may change from time to time. Please refer to the ATO website ato.com.au/super for updated information on the SG rate, 'ordinary time earnings base' and the 'maximum super contribution base' amount.
Salary Sacrifice	You may be able to arrange with your employer to contribute to your super from your before-tax salary (called salary sacrifice). Salary sacrifice contributions can be made before age 75. There are no limits to the amount you can salary sacrifice unless your agreement with your employer imposes such limits. However, you should obtain professional advice and consider whether your salary sacrifice contributions will reduce your take-home pay and/ or cause you to exceed your concessional (before -tax) contributions cap and attract additional tax. You should also consider if the salary amount you sacrifice will trigger a payment of Division 293 tax on some or all of your low-tax contributions which can apply when your income and concessional contributions exceed $250,000 in one year. Salary sacrifice contributions are taxed in the super fund at a maximum rate of 15% which is generally less than an individual's marginal tax rate.
Voluntary employer contributions	Your employer may offer to make voluntary contributions in addition to any award or SG requirements. Unlike salary sacrifice contributions, these do not affect your take-home pay.

Personal contributions

Voluntary personal contributions

You can personally contribute to your super from a number of sources, including:

- your after-tax income,
- personal injury payments,
- a capital gains tax (CGT) small business concession¹,
- downsizing proceeds, or
- through your spouse making after-tax contributions on your behalf (up to age 69).

Your after-tax income

You can make contributions to your super from your after-tax income (i.e., your take-home pay). After-tax contributions are in addition to your employer's SG or award contributions and do not include any contributions you make through salary sacrifice. They count towards your non-concessional contributions cap unless you claim a tax deduction for them (at which point they will count towards your concessional contribution cap).

Personal deductible contributions

If you are eligible, you may be able to claim a tax deduction for your personal contributions (termed personal deductible contributions). You must complete a Notice of intent to claim or vary a deduction for personal super contributions form, available in the Secure Online Portal and receive an acknowledgement from us before claiming a tax deduction in your tax return. Please refer to Part 7 of this Guide 'How super is taxed' or ato.gov.au for more information.

Note:

From age 67 to 74 years (inclusive), you must satisfy the work test or meet the work test exemption to be able to make personal deductible contributions – this requirement does not apply for non-concessional contributions.

From age 75 onwards, you cannot make any after-tax contributions to your super, even if you satisfy the work test or the work test exemption, with one exception: you can make an after-tax contribution within 28 days of the end of the month in which you turn 75, provided you satisfy the 'work test' or the work test exemption and your total superannuation balance¹ is less than the Transfer Balance Cap.

Please refer to Part 7 of this Guide "How super is taxed" or ato.gov.au for more information.
Personal injury contributions	Certain personal injury payments can be contributed and are exempt from the contribution caps if all the criteria are satisfied. You should seek tax advice to confirm if a personal injury payment qualifies under the taxation rules. If you are satisfied that your contribution qualifies under the rules, you must make the contribution within 90 days of the payment being received or the structured settlement or order coming into effect, whichever is later. You must notify us at the time of making the contribution by providing a completed Contributions for personal injury election form (available from ato.gov.au/super) that the contribution is a personal injury contribution.
Contributions relating to CGT small business concessions	Certain proceeds from the disposal of eligible small business assets can be contributed to your super and may be assessed under the CGT cap (subject to your lifetime limit) instead of the non-concessional cap. As the rules for making such a contribution are complex, you should seek advice from your tax advisor to determine if you are eligible for a small business CGT concession. You must advise us at the time you make the contribution that you are electing to use the CGT cap for all or part of the contribution by completing and providing the Capital Gains Tax Election form (available from ato.gov.au/super) with the contribution. Please note there are timeframes in which the contribution needs to be made.
Downsizer contributions	From 1 January 2023, if you are 55 years old or older and meet the eligibility requirements, you may choose to make a "downsizer contribution" into your superannuation of up to $300,000 ($600,000 combined for a couple) from the proceeds of selling your principal home in Australia. Your "downsizer contribution" is not a non-concessional contribution and will not count towards your contribution caps. Downsizer contributions are not tax deductible and will be taken into account in determining your eligibility for social security entitlements. The downsizer contribution can still be made if you have a total superannuation balance greater than $1.7 million. However, it will count towards the general Transfer Balance Cap, currently $1.7 million. This cap (and personal Transfer Balance Cap) applies when you move your super savings from accumulation into pension phase. To be eligible to make a downsizer contribution, the contribution must be accompanied by a Making a Downsizer Contribution into Super form (available from the ato.gov.au) and you must make the contribution within 90 days of the date of the disposal (e.g., date of settlement). Spouse contributions

Spouse contribution	If you are eligible, your spouse can make after-tax contributions to your super on your behalf up until age 74. The contribution must also be paid from an account in the name of your spouse or a joint account where your spouse is an account holder. A 'spouse' includes your husband or wife via marriage or a person you are in a relationship that is registered under certain state or territory laws or another person, who although not legally married to you, lives with you on a genuine domestic basis in a relationship as a couple. Spouse tax- offset A spouse tax-offset may be available if you make a non-concessional contribution on behalf of your spouse if your spouse earns less than the required income level or is not working and other eligibility criteria are met. Please refer to Part 7 of this Guide "How super is taxed" or ato.gov.au/super for more details on how to claim the spouse tax-offset.
---------------------	---

Contribution splitting	Super fund Members can split contributions made to their fund to their spouse's super account. The spouse's account does not have to be with Ensurity Super. Only concessional super contributions may be split including personal contributions on which you have claimed a deduction or employer contributions. The maximum splittable amount for any financial year is the lesser of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 85% of your concessional contributions made in the financial year; or • your concessional contributions cap for the financial year, including any unused concessional contribution cap carried forward from previous financial years. If you wish to claim a tax deduction for all or part of your contributions, you must give Notice of Intent to claim a deduction before splitting contributions with your spouse. Please note these contributions will still count towards your concessional contributions cap. The application to split must be made either:

- in the following financial year (i.e., the application must be made between 1 July and 30 June in the financial year following the year in which the contributions were made), or
- during the financial year in which the contributions were made, if the entire benefit is to be rolled over or transferred before the end of that financial year.

Government contributions

Government contribution

In some circumstances, the Australian government can make certain contributions to your super. You do not need to apply for these contributions. Provided you have notified us of your Tax File Number (TFN), the ATO will assess your eligibility at the end of each financial year and make the relevant contribution automatically.

For further details about the government co-contributions and low income super tax offset (LISTO) including eligibility criteria please refer to the ato.gov.au/super.

Government co-contribution

If you are eligible, you may receive from the Government: a co contribution (up to a maximum of $500) if you are a low to middle-income earner and make a personal (after-tax) contribution to your super.

If you claim a tax deduction for your personal contribution, you may not be eligible for a government co-contribution.

If you have more than one super fund and you want your co-contribution paid to a particular one, you will need to nominate your preferred fund.

If you are now retired and no longer have an eligible super Account that will accept the co-contribution, you can request a direct payment from the ATO.

For further information on eligibility requirements and limits, please refer to ato.gov.au/super.

Low-income super tax offset (LISTO)

If you are eligible, with an adjusted taxable income of up to $37,000 you will receive a LISTO payment into your super Account. The LISTO payment will be equal to 15% of the total concessional (pre-tax) employer and personal contributions (personal deductible contributions) for an income per year, capped at $500.

If you have reached your preservation age and are retired, you can apply to the ATO to have the LISTO paid to you directly. You don't need to apply for LISTO, if you are eligible and your superannuation fund has your tax file number, the ATO will pay it to your Account automatically.

Temporary residents will not qualify for the LISTO.

For more information about the LISTO rates and thresholds, please refer to the Super caps, rates, and thresholds fact sheet, which is available on the Secure Online Portal.

How to make contributions

You or your spouse can make voluntary (personal) contributions by electronic funds transfer (EFT) or BPAY® at any time. The relevant details and reference number can be found in the Secure Online Portal.

Your contributions or rollovers will initially be invested into your Cash Hub. You are able to make investments into any one or more of your chosen Investment Options from the Cash Hub.

In most cases, you can choose which super fund your employer pays the SG and award contributions (if any) into. This is sometimes referred to as “super choice” or “choice of fund”. From 1 November 2021, to comply with choice of fund rules, your employer may now have to request new employees ‘stapled super fund’ details from the ATO. A stapled fund is an existing super account which is linked, or ‘stapled’, to an individual employee so it follows you as you change jobs. Your employer may not be required to accept your choice of fund request in certain circumstances, refer to ato.gov.au/individuals/super/getting-your-super-started for further details on whether you are eligible to choose your own super fund.

If you can choose your super fund and you want your employer to pay your SG or award contributions, (including any salary sacrifice contributions you may choose to make), to Ensurity Super you need to give your employer a Choice of fund form nominating Ensurity Super as your chosen fund. The Choice of fund form can be obtained from the Secure Online Portal or through your financial adviser.

If you do not make a choice, and you don’t have a stapled fund, or you do not tell your employer which super fund to pay your SG or award contributions to, your employer, under law, must pay those contributions into the employer’s default super fund, or other fund as directed by the Commissioner of Taxation. Ensurity Super does not offer a MySuper product and therefore cannot be the default fund.

Contribution caps

There are limits to the amounts of contributions you are able to make to your super each financial year in order to be taxed at lower (or nil) rates. If you contribute over these limits, you may have to pay extra tax. These limits are called contribution caps. The cap amount and how much tax you need to pay can depend on your age, (and work status), the financial year that the contribution relates to and whether the contributions are concessional (before-tax) or non-concessional (after-tax) contributions.

It’s important to remember that contributions must be received by Ensurity Super by 30 June in order for the contribution to count towards the cap for that financial year. Contributions received by Ensurity Super after 30 June each year will be counted towards the cap that applies for the next financial year.

Concessional contributions cap

Concessional contributions include:

- compulsory employer contributions (SG and award),
- any additional concessional contributions your employer makes,
- salary sacrifice contributions,
- other amounts paid by your employer from your before-tax income to your super (if applicable), such as administration fees and costs and insurance premiums,
- contributions you are allowed as an income tax deduction, and
- some amounts allocated from a fund reserve.

Concessional (before-tax) contributions are taxed at 15% once they are received in your super fund. If your contributions exceed the concessional contribution cap you may have to pay extra tax. Please note that if you split your before-tax contributions with your spouse, those contributions still count towards your concessional contributions cap.

For the 2022-2023 financial year, the concessional contributions cap is $27,500 irrespective of your age. Please refer to ato.gov.au/super for the concessional contribution cap that applies for the relevant financial year.

Carry forward arrangement

Since 1 July 2018, you may have been able to carry forward an unused amount of your concessional contributions cap. When considering previous financial years, the potential unused concessional cap carry forward amount for 2019-2020 and 2020-2021 financial years is $25,000 each year, and up to $27,500 for the 2021-2022 financial year. Your total superannuation balance must be less than $500,000 at the end of 30 June of the previous year to use this carry forward arrangement. Unused amounts are available for a maximum of five years and will expire after this.

Non-concessional contributions cap

Non-concessional contributions include:

- contributions you or your employer make on your behalf, from your after-tax income,
- after-tax contributions your spouse makes to your super,
- personal contributions not claimed as an income tax deduction,
- excess concessional (before-tax) contributions you have not elected to release from your super,
- contributions over your CGT cap amount,
- retirement benefits you withdraw from your super and “re-contribute” to your super, and
- most transfers from foreign superannuation funds (including New Zealand KiwiSaver contributions), but excluding amounts included in your super fund’s assessable income.

Non-concessional contributions are made into your super fund from after-tax income and are not taxed in your super fund. If you exceed your non-concessional contributions cap in any financial year, you must lodge an income tax return for that year, and you may have to pay extra tax.

Please note that contributions that are eligible personal injury payments, and any contributions you chose to count towards your CGT cap that have not gone over your lifetime limit, may be excluded from the non-concessional contributions cap if they meet certain criteria. For the 2022-2023 financial year, the CGT cap amount is $1.650 million. Please refer to ato.gov.au/super for further information.

For the 2022-2023 financial year, the non-concessional contribution cap is $110,000 per year. The cap is available up to your 75th birthday.

Note: From 1 July 2022, individuals aged 67 to 74 years (inclusive) will be able to make or receive non-concessional or salary sacrifice contributions without meeting the work test, subject to existing contributions caps.

However, you will be unable to utilise the non-concessional cap for a financial year if your total superannuation balance is equal to or greater than the general Transfer Balance Cap (currently $1.7 million) at the end of 30 June of the previous financial year.

Bring forward arrangement

If eligible, you may be able to make non-concessional contributions three times the annual non-concessional contributions cap in a single year in any one three-year period. That is, you can contribute up to $330,000 in any one three-year period. This means that when you make contributions greater than the annual cap, you automatically gain (trigger) access to future year caps. You can then make further non-concessional contributions after the end of that three-year period, up to your non-concessional contribution cap. This is subject to your total superannuation balance as at the 30 June in the previous financial year and reduces when your total superannuation balance is equal to $1.48 million or more and is nil when it reaches $1.7 million.

Note: From 1 July 2022, the bring-forward arrangements allowing individuals to contribute up to $330,000 of non-concessional contributions in a financial year have been extended to those aged 67 to 74.

Please refer to the Super caps, rates and thresholds fact sheet, which is available on the Secure Online Portal or ato.gov.au/super, for more information on contribution caps, and the 'carry forward' and 'bring forward' arrangements that apply for concessional contributions and non-concessional contributions, including eligibility criteria.

The contribution caps may change from time to time. For example, the annual concessional contributions cap is indexed annually with Average Weekly Ordinary Time Earnings (AWOTE) and rounded down to the nearest $2,500. Further, since the non-concessional contributions cap is 4 x the concessional contributions cap, indexation of the concessional contributions cap by $2,500 would increase the non-concessional contributions cap by $10,000. Refer to ato.gov.au/super for up to date information.

IMPORTANT: It is your responsibility to ensure contributions to super are within your contribution caps as we are not able to monitor your overall position. You will need to take into account all the contributions made to all your super funds. Please consult your financial adviser and/ or tax advisor about the level and types of contributions you can make.

Providing Your Tax File Number (TFN)

You should provide your TFN when joining Ensurity Super.

It is not compulsory to provide your TFN but if you choose not to provide it, higher tax will apply to your employer-based concessional contributions, and we cannot accept (non-concessional and personal deductible) personal contributions from you, nor would you be eligible to receive the Government co-contribution. Also, the tax on super benefits may be higher and it may not be possible to locate any lost super benefits or to combine your superannuation accounts or transfer your super benefit.

Rollovers

A rollover is when a Member transfers some or all their existing super benefits from one super fund to another super fund provided the receiving fund is a complying superannuation fund. A fund's compliant status can be confirmed by using Super Fund Lookup at www.superfundlookup.gov.au.

On joining Ensurity Super, you may choose to roll over your super benefits from other complying super funds¹. This may save you multiple administration fees and costs (which can deplete your final benefit) and allow you to manage your super more effectively.

You or your financial adviser can request the rollover at the time of opening your Account or anytime via the Secure Online Portal. Alternatively, you can complete a Roll-in form available on the Secure Online Portal.

IMPORTANT: Before you move your super, you should consider whether you will incur any fees from your other account(s) and how moving your super may affect any insurance or other benefits linked to that account. Please consult your financial adviser before you rollover benefits from other funds into Ensurity Super.

Accessing your super

Once you are eligible to access your super, you can choose to receive your super as a lump sum, a retirement income stream (e.g., via an account-based pension) or a combination of both.

Warning: If you withdraw your entire superannuation benefit you will lose any insurance cover you may currently have under Ensurity Super. If you wish to continue to receive insurance cover, you will need to maintain an Account balance sufficient to cover the cost of the premiums and if the balance of your Super Account is less than $6,000, you will need to complete an Opt-in to Insurance form (available on the Secure Online Portal). Please refer to the Insurance Guide for more details.

As super is complex, you should consult your financial adviser and tax advisor for advice tailored to your personal circumstances, regarding the impacts on your insurance cover and the advantages and disadvantages of receiving a lump sum, a retirement income stream, or a combination of both.

When can you access your super?

Because superannuation is designed to provide for your retirement, generally, you must meet a 'retirement-based' condition of release before being able to access your super.

¹ We do not currently accept transfers of super benefits from overseas super funds (such as QROPS).

Preserved benefits

All contributions made by or on behalf of a Member and all earnings since 30 June 1999 are preserved in Ensurity Super until a condition of release is met. These are called Preserved Benefits.

Some of the most commonly occurring 'retirement-based' conditions of release include:

- when you turn 65 (even if you have not retired),
- when you reach preservation age and permanently retire¹,
- when you reach your preservation age and commence a Transition to Retirement Pension income stream, or
- when you cease an employment arrangement on or after age 60².

Your preservation age, which can range from 55 to 60, depending upon your date of birth as shown in Table 3 below.

Table 3 – Preservation age

Date of birth	Preservation age
Before 1 July 1960	55
From 1 July 1960 to 30 June 1961	56
From 1 July 1961 to 30 June 1962	57
From 1 July 1962 to 30 June 1963	58
From 1 July 1963 to 30 June 1964	59
On 1 July 1964 or after	60

Preserved benefits may be cashed voluntarily if a condition of release is met, subject to any cashing restrictions imposed by legislation as part of the condition of release. Some conditions of release restrict the form of the benefit (for example, lump sum or pension) or the amount of benefit that can be paid. These are known as 'cashing restrictions'.

¹ If you reach your preservation age and are under age 60, you will be considered retired if you've left the workforce and do not intend to be gainfully employed for more than 10 hours per week.

² After age 60, you will be able to access your super accrued to that time if you leave employment even if you decide to go back to work later. Contributions made after a return to work will be preserved benefits until a new condition of release is met.

Non preserved benefits

There are two types of non-preserved benefits.

- restricted non-preserved benefits - include all employment-related contributions (other than employer contributions) you made between 1 July 1983 and before 1 July 1999 or rolled-over employment termination payments made before 1 July 2004. Restricted non-preserved benefits cannot be cashed until the Member meets a condition of release specific to these benefits such as where a nil cashing restriction applies or where the employment, they relate to has been terminated, and
- unrestricted non-preserved benefits - these benefits don't require a condition of release to be met and may be paid on demand to the Member. They include, for example, benefits for which a Member has previously satisfied a condition of release and decided to keep the money in the super fund. Please consult your financial adviser about the requirements related to non-preserved benefits or refer to ato.gov.au.

Accessing your super early

There are very limited circumstances when you can access some or all of your super before you reach your preservation age or retire. These circumstances are related to specific medical conditions or severe financial hardships, and include:

Permanent incapacity: ‘permanent incapacity’ means we are reasonably satisfied that your ill-health (whether physical or mental) makes it unlikely that you will engage in paid employment for which you are reasonably qualified by education, training, or experience.

Severe financial hardship: you may qualify to withdraw some of your super if you have received eligible Government income support payments continuously for 26 weeks and we are satisfied that you are unable to meet reasonable and immediate family living expenses. A minimum and maximum withdrawal amount applies, and you can only make one withdrawal based on financial hardship in any 12- month period. A maximum withdrawal limit doesn’t apply if you have met your preservation age. However, we must be satisfied that you are not gainfully employed on the date of application and have received relevant Government income support payments for a total of 39 weeks after attaining preservation age. You will not be eligible if you are a current or former holder of a temporary visa unless you are a permanent resident of Australia or citizen of Australia or New Zealand. You will need to submit a completed Withdrawal Financial Hardship form to Ensurity Super, available via the Secure Online Portal.

Compassionate grounds: the ATO may approve the release of your super to cover expenses related to medical treatment for you or for your dependant, modifying your home or vehicle for the special needs of yourself or your dependant because of severe disability or paying for expenses associated with a death, funeral, or burial of a dependant, or in order to prevent the forced sale of your home by your mortgagee. You will need to complete the online application form available at ato.gov.au and submit it to the ATO. The amount that can be released is the amount reasonably required to meet the need and will be determined by the ATO. It is paid as a lump sum and is taxed as a normal super lump sum if you are under age 60. If you are over age 60, the payment is not taxed. You will not be eligible to apply if you are a current or former holder of a temporary visa unless you are a permanent resident of Australia or citizen of Australia or New Zealand.

Terminal illness: a terminal illness condition exists if two registered medical practitioners have certified you suffer from an illness or have an injury, that is likely to result in death within a period (certification period) that ends no more than 24 months after the date of the certification; at least one of the medical practitioners is a specialist practising in an area related to your illness, and the certification period has not ended. If you qualify for this condition of release, all superannuation benefits which have accrued up to this time become unrestricted non-preserved. This condition of release also covers the certification period, meaning that any further benefits accrued within the 24-month certification period will also be treated as unrestricted non-preserved benefits. You will need to submit a completed Withdrawal or Rollout form to Ensurity Super, available via the Secure Online Portal. A super lump sum payment will be exempt from tax where you suffer from a terminal illness and withdraw the payment within the 24-month certification period.

Temporary incapacity: you may qualify if you are temporarily unable to work or need to work less hours because of a physical or mental medical condition. This condition is generally used to release salary continuance insurance benefits from super and if your application is accepted, you will receive regular payments over the time you are unable to work. The insurer will deduct PAYG tax from your payments.

If you die: your beneficiaries may be paid your benefits.

If your Super is less than $200: you qualify if your employment is terminated, and the balance of your super is less than $200 or if you have formerly lost super held by a fund or by the ATO that is less than $200. No tax is payable when accessing super accounts with a balance less than $200.

First Home Super Saver Scheme (FHSS): the FHSS allows you to save money for your first home inside your super fund by making voluntary concessional and non-concessional contributions.

You can make voluntary super contributions (both concessional and non-concessional) up to the applicable contributions cap. If you meet the FHSS eligibility criteria, the maximum amount eligible to be withdrawn is $15,000 of voluntary super contributions per financial year made since 1 July 2017 (up to a total of $50,000 across all years) plus associated earnings.

Note: The amount that can be withdrawn is 100% of eligible non-concessional contributions, 85% of eligible concessional contributions, plus 85% of associated earnings.

Voluntary contributions eligible for release include salary sacrifice contributions and personal contributions (non-concessional and personal deductible).

To be eligible:

- the FHSS can only be applied to purchase a home in Australia,
- you must apply to the ATO and receive an FHSS determination from the ATO before you sign a contract for purchase or construction of a home or apply to the Fund for release of your contributions, however you no longer have to wait for an FHSS payment before signing a contract, and
- you have 12 months from making a valid request for release in which to enter into a contract for purchase or construction of your home (and notify the ATO within 28 days of signing the contract) or recontribute the assessable amount to super (and notify the ATO within 12 months of the date of the request for release) however, an extension may be granted.
- if you are unable to enter into a contract within the required period, and have not been granted an extension, you must recontribute the withdrawn funds (net of tax withheld) back into super or keep the withdrawn funds and pay a FHSS Tax (20% of the assessable withdrawn funds).

For more information on the FHSS (including other eligibility requirements) and to apply, refer to ato.gov.au.

Trans-Tasman portability: you may transfer retirement savings between Australia and New Zealand after moving from one country to the other. The transfer is voluntary, and it is not compulsory for you to transfer your super nor is it compulsory for Australian and New Zealand funds to accept Trans-Tasman transfers. If you have permanently migrated to New Zealand, you may be eligible to transfer your superannuation to a KiwiSaver account under the Trans -Tasman portability scheme. For more information, refer to ato.gov.au/super. While Ensurity Super in Australia is required to release (transfer out) funds upon request from eligible Members to eligible Kiwi Saver accounts in New Zealand, given the administrative and system changes required, Ensurity Super is presently unable to accept super transfers in from Kiwi Saver accounts in New Zealand.

If you wish to transfer funds to your eligible KiwiSaver account, you need to complete a Withdrawal form which is available via the Secure Online Portal.

Temporary Residents: if you have worked in Australia on a temporary visa and you have super in Australia, you can apply, after you leave Australia, to have this super paid to you as a departing Australian superannuation payment (DASP). If you have not claimed your super after you have left Australia for at least 6 months, and your visa has expired or been cancelled, your super will be transferred to the ATO as unclaimed super money.

You can subsequently access your benefit from the ATO. The ATO can be contacted on 13 10 20. We are not obliged to notify or give an exit statement to you if we transfer your super to the ATO after you depart Australia.

There are limited conditions of release available to a Member who is or was a temporary resident. Accounts in respect of all temporary resident Members (irrespective of whether or not they have left Australia) will only be able to be released under the following conditions:

- death or terminal medical condition,
- permanent incapacity,
- departing Australia permanently applies to temporary residents who apply in writing for release of their benefit,
- Trustee payments to the ATO under the Superannuation (Unclaimed Money and Lost Members) Act 1999. Refer to page 35 under “Unclaimed Money and page 34 under Inactive Low Balance Accounts”, or
- temporary incapacity and/or release authorities under the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.

Notes:

If you are a New Zealand citizen or you become an Australian citizen or permanent resident these changes will not apply to you.

IMPORTANT: You should consult your financial adviser about accessing your super or visit ato.gov.au for more information.

Receiving a Pension income stream

Once you have reached your preservation age and meet the eligibility requirements, you can choose to receive a pension income stream in two ways:

- Transition to Retirement Pension Account, where you are under age 65 and you have not retired or met another condition of release that has a nil cashing restriction, or
- Pension Account, if you are aged 65 (even if you have not retired), or if you permanently retire before age 65 having met your preservation age or have met another condition of release which results in your superannuation balance becoming unrestricted non-preserved.

Refer to Part 8 “How to open and operate an Account” for more information on how to open a Transition to Retirement Pension Account and a Pension Account.

Starting a Pension

A minimum amount of $20,000 each is required to open a Transition to Retirement Pension Account or a Pension Account. The minimum amount can be transferred from your accumulation Super Account or rolled over from another super fund(s) if you have one. Refer to page 19 for more details.

Note: There are other amounts that may be paid into a super fund for the purpose of commencing a pension such as certain disablement amounts on settlement of a disability claim (outside of super), proceeds from the sale of a small business, and super sourced from a foreign super fund. Special rules apply to these amounts.

Once your pension Account has been established, superannuation regulations prevent you from adding further money to it. If you have other super savings with which to start a pension you will need to commence a separate pension. Alternatively, you could use the Pension refresh form to ‘roll back’ your existing pension into a super Account, rollover or contribute to that Account and start a new pension. The Pension refresh form is available in the Secure Online Portal.

You can have more than one pension in Ensurity Super if you wish.

Commencing a new pension may affect your Social Security entitlements - please consult your financial adviser for further advice.

Transition to Retirement Pension Account

A Transition to Retirement Pension Account is an account based pension. Lump sum withdrawals can only be made in limited circumstances where the Transition to Retirement Pension Account is in accumulation phase. Refer to page 19 for more information.

If you have already met a condition of release that has a nil cashing restriction, you will not need a Transition to Retirement Pension Account, but may start a Pension Account

The value of the assets in your Transition to Retirement Pension Account count towards your total superannuation balance.

A minimum amount must be paid to you out of the Transition to Retirement Pension Account each financial year. Refer to Table 4 on page 29. The minimum amount depends on your age at 1 July each year and the balance of your Account at that time. Under superannuation law, if the minimum amount is not paid, the pension ceases for taxation purposes. The maximum annual amount that can be paid out in any one financial year is 10% of the Account balance as at 30 June of the previous financial year or on commencement if you commence a Transition to Retirement Pension Account part way during a financial year.

Once you reach age 65, permanently retire or meet another condition of release (if you are permanently incapacitated, you suffer a terminal illness or you die), your Transition to Retirement Pension Account enters retirement phase. Prior to this, earnings on the assets in the Transition to Retirement Pension Account are taxed in Ensurity Super at the concessional rate of 15%.

Once retirement phase commences, the pension continues, all benefits become unrestricted non-preserved benefits, and:

- earnings on the assets in the Pension Account qualify as tax exempt current pension income,
- the maximum annual payment limit does not apply, and
- the value of the Pension Account as at that date counts towards your Transfer Balance Cap.

Refer to Part 7 of this Guide “How super is taxed” for more information on how your pension payments are taxed.

Transfer Balance Cap

When you transfer your super benefits from accumulation phase to retirement phase for the first time, and commence an Account-based pension, you must not exceed the general Transfer Balance Cap.

The general Transfer Balance Cap is currently set at $1.7 million (indexed) per person (not per Account-based pension owned by a person) for the 2022-23 financial year. The general Transfer Balance Cap is indexed in $100,000 increments on an annual basis in line with the Consumer Price Index.

Upon commencing an Account-based pension, you also start to have a personal Transfer Balance Cap, a transfer balance account, and a transfer balance – which remain with you until you pass away. The personal Transfer Balance Cap is initially equal to the general Transfer Balance Cap for the financial year that you start to have a transfer balance account.

However, the personal Transfer Balance Cap can diverge from the general Transfer Balance Cap over time. The personal Transfer Balance Cap is proportionally indexed in line with increases to the general Transfer Balance Cap. For example, if only a portion of the personal Transfer Balance Cap is used, then the unused portion is indexed.

Your excess transfer balance is the sum of the amount that exceeds your transfer cap and the earnings on the excess amount.

When you exceed your Transfer Balance Cap

If you exceed your Transfer Balance Cap, you will have an excess transfer balance and you will need to rectify by:

- converting the excess transfer balance amount into a lump sum withdrawal (commutation). You can choose to keep the commuted amount in the accumulation phase or cash the amount out of the superannuation system, and
- you may have to pay excess transfer balance tax.

You have more time to rectify any excess Transfer Balance Cap amount if they originated from a death benefit income stream.

If the amount in your retirement phase Account(s) grows over time (through investment earnings) to more than $1.7 million, you will not exceed your cap due to the growth. If the amount in your retirement phase Account(s) goes down overtime, you cannot transfer more money into retirement phase if you have already used all of your cap space.

Super savings accumulated in excess of the Transfer Balance Cap can remain in your Super Account, where the earnings will continue to be taxed at the concessional rate of 15% or you may choose to access them as a lump sum payment.

Pension payments

You can choose the amount, month, and frequency of your pension payments. You can choose to receive regular pension payments:

- monthly,
- quarterly, paid every August, November, February, and May,
- half yearly, paid November and May, or
- annually in May.

Payments are made directly into your Nominated Bank Account on the 25th day of the month. Where the 25th does not fall on a Business Day, your payment will be made on the closest business day before the 25th.

You can nominate the pension amount, payment frequency and bank account details during the Pension online application process, or if you wish to update those details, by completing a Change of Details form available in the Secure Online Portal.

Changes to pension payments must be made no later than 5 business days before the pension payment is due to be processed.

Changes are subject to the minimum income limit (and maximum for a Transition to Retirement Pension Account) that applies to you for that year.

Pension payment limits

Once you start a pension on or after 1 July 2007, a minimum amount is required to be paid each year. There is no maximum amount other than the balance of your super Account, unless it is a Transition to Retirement Pension which is not in the retirement phase, in which case the maximum amount is 10% of the Account balance at the commencement or at the beginning of each subsequent financial year.

The minimum annual pension payment is a percentage of your Account balance determined according to your age as at July 1 in each year (or at the commencement date of the pension in the first year). For the 2022/2023 full financial year, the drawdown minimum payment amounts (pension minimums) have been halved for:¹

- Account-based annuities and pensions,
- Allocated annuities and pensions, and
- Market-linked annuities and pensions (a.k.a. Term Allocated Pensions or TAPs)

Table 4 below sets out the percentage factor to calculate the minimum amount payable each year.

Table 4 – Pension payment factors

Minimum income limit
Your age at 1 July ¹	Default minimum drawdown rates	Reduced rates for 2022-23 income year
Under 65	4%	2%
65 – 74	5%	2.5%
75 – 79	6%	3%
80 – 84	7%	3.5%
85 – 89	9%	4.5%
90 – 94	11%	5.5%
95 +	14%	7%

Note: If you elect to receive the minimum pension, this will be paid on the default minimum drawdown rate unless you make an election to receive a pension payment based on the reduced rates in the financial year.

Pension lump sum withdrawals

You may make a lump sum withdrawal from your Pension Account, however, lump sum withdrawals from a Transition to Retirement Pension Account can only be made in one of the following circumstances:

- if your Account has an unrestricted non-preserved component² and your lump sum withdrawal does not exceed this amount,
- if you satisfy a condition of release with a nil cashing restriction (for example, retirement), or
- to give effect to a payment split under family law.

Before making a lump sum withdrawal, it is important to understand that in dollar terms, a reduced balance will impact future regular pension payments. To make a lump sum withdrawal all you need to do is complete the Withdrawal form available via the Secure Online Portal. Lump sum withdrawals do not count towards your annual minimum pension payments.

² These components are carried over when you roll into your Pension Account from one or more of your super funds.

Death benefits and beneficiaries

What happens to your super and pension benefits after you die?

The Trustee will, upon receipt of the required documentation, pay out a Member's super or pension benefits, (which may include insurance benefits if you have insurance) to one or more of the following beneficiaries:

- valid dependants recorded as the nominated beneficiaries in a binding death benefit nomination,
- a combination of nominated beneficiary(ies) and/or the spouse, dependants, the legal personal representative of the estate as we determine in our discretion (if a valid binding death benefit nomination has not been made), or
- a valid reversionary pensioner beneficiary nominated by a Member when commencing or receiving a Pension.

The death benefit may be paid as either an income stream or a lump-sum payment. Only certain dependants for tax purposes are eligible to commence or continue an income stream on the death of a Member.

Upon receipt of a certified copy of the death certificate, the Account balance will be transferred to the lowest risk Investment Option (the Cash Hub) pending payment of applicable death benefits. We do this to minimise investment risk.

Important facts on death payments

- a death payment does not automatically form part of a deceased estate, and is not necessarily included as an asset within a Will,
- any insurance benefit amount that applies will form part of the total death payment from the Member's Account, and
- if you have no legal personal representative or dependants, the Trustee may pay the benefit to any other person that the Trustee determines to be appropriate, subject to government legislation.

Who can the Trustee pay the death benefit to?

A death benefit can be paid to:

- a spouse of the deceased (including a de facto spouse),
- a child of the deceased, of any age, including an adopted child, stepchild, child of a spouse, or child born after the Member's death,

- a person in an interdependency relationship with the deceased¹,
- the legal personal representative of the deceased, or
- if there are no dependants and no legal personal representative, any other person that the Trustee determines to be appropriate, subject to government legislation.

Death benefit nominations

Reversionary pension

A death benefit can be paid to a dependant as a pension if a Member dies after commencing a pension. This is called a reversionary pension and the recipient is known as the reversionary beneficiary.

Only one dependant may be nominated for tax purposes as a reversionary beneficiary. A reversionary pension will count towards the reversionary beneficiary's Transfer Balance Cap.

In some cases, making a reversionary beneficiary nomination may affect your Social Security entitlements. For information on Centrelink benefits, contact the Department of Human Services at humanservices.gov.au or for Veterans' entitlements, contact the Department of Veterans' Affairs at dva.gov.au.

When can I nominate a reversionary beneficiary?

You may nominate a reversionary beneficiary when you first open your Account. In the application form we ask if you want to nominate a reversionary beneficiary.

Can I change a reversionary beneficiary nomination?

You can change or cancel a reversionary beneficiary nomination later by contacting us.

Are there circumstances when a reversionary beneficiary nomination may become invalid?

At the time the death benefit becomes payable, the Trustee will decide whether a reversionary beneficiary nomination is still valid. A reversionary beneficiary nomination will become invalid if you divorce, if your reversionary beneficiary dies before you or if your reversionary beneficiary is a child over 18 who is no longer deemed to be financially dependent on you. If the nomination is invalid,

¹ An interdependency relationship is a relationship in which a person and the Member have a close personal relationship, whereby they live together and one of them provides the other with financial support, domestic support, and personal care. If they do not live together due to physical, psychiatric, or intellectual disability, an interdependency relationship may still exist.

the pension will be commuted to a lump sum and the Trustee will use its discretion to determine who the benefit is paid to, in accordance with the Trust Deed and government legislation. See above under “Who can the Trustee pay the death benefit to?”

Lump sum payments

Lump sum payments may be paid to beneficiaries whether they are dependant(s) or legal personal representatives.

If a beneficiary is not a dependant for tax purposes, benefit payments may be subject to tax. Children over 18 are generally not dependants for tax purposes unless they are disabled or aged between 18 and 25 and financially dependent.

How to nominate a beneficiary

When nominating a beneficiary, you can choose to make either a non-binding death benefit nomination, or a binding death benefit nomination.

Non-binding death benefit nomination

A non-binding death benefit nomination serves as a guide to the Trustee as to your wishes regarding the payment of death benefits. It is not binding on the Trustee; however, we will take your wishes into consideration when deciding to whom your death benefit is paid. The Trustee will make a decision based on the circumstances of your nominated beneficiary(ies) or other claimants at the time of your death, as these may have changed since you completed your non-binding death benefit nomination.

You can make a non-binding nomination as part of your application to Ensurity Super.

To make or change a non-binding death benefit nomination, you can write to us with the details of the name, address, and date of birth of the beneficiary and the percentage share of the death benefit to be allocated to them.

If you have commenced a pension and you have made a reversionary beneficiary nomination, then the reversionary beneficiary nomination applies in respect of your Pension Account.

Binding death benefit nomination

A binding death benefit nomination provides greater certainty as to who benefits from your super or pension following your death.

There are advantages and disadvantages when choosing to make a binding death benefit nomination, so we recommend that you seek professional advice before doing so.

To make a valid binding death benefit nomination:

- you must nominate a spouse or one or more dependants and/or your legal personal representative,

- you can allocate a percentage of your benefit to each beneficiary however the percentages allocated must total 100%, otherwise the nomination will be invalid,
- your nomination must be in writing,
- Your nomination must be signed and dated, in the presence of two witnesses, being persons:
 - both of whom have turned 18 years of age, and
 - neither of whom is mentioned in the nomination, and
- your nomination must contain a declaration signed and dated by the witnesses stating that the nomination was signed by you in their presence.

IMPORTANT: A binding death benefit nomination may be a non-lapsing death benefit nomination or have a fixed term of three years. A current binding death benefit nomination overrides any binding or non-binding nomination you have made previously, other than a valid nomination of a reversionary beneficiary for a Pension Account. We are required to follow a valid binding death benefit nomination even if your circumstances changed between the date of the binding death benefit nomination and the time of death. While a non-lapsing death benefit nomination does not require a regular update, a binding death benefit nomination with a fixed term must be renewed at least once every three years in order for it to be valid. If you do not renew your binding death benefit nomination before the expiry date, your death benefit nomination will revert to a non-binding death benefit nomination. You may revoke your binding death benefit nomination at any time in writing.

If you have commenced a pension and you have made a reversionary beneficiary nomination that nomination revokes a binding death benefit nomination in respect of your Pension Account. You can make, change or cancel a reversionary beneficiary nomination at any time by contacting us.

In general, the Trustee does not accept binding nominations signed by someone other than the Member e.g., by a power of attorney.

The Binding Death Benefit Nomination form is available by calling us on 1300 195 040 (within Australia) or via the Secure Online Portal in the Super Tab or in FAQ/Forms.

For further information on the payment of death benefits, please refer to the Death Benefit Nomination fact sheet available on the Secure Online Portal.

Inactive low balance Accounts

Under the Protecting Your Superannuation Package legislative amendments introduced by the Australian Government in early 2019, we are required to identify inactive low balance Accounts twice yearly, and to pay those amounts to the ATO by 30 April and 31 October each year.

The exception to this is where you provide a written notice to the ATO declaring that you are not a Member of an inactive low balance Account. If this applies to you, you can authorise us to provide the written notice to the ATO on your behalf. The notice must be provided to the Commissioner of Taxation on or before the relevant due date for the payment to the ATO. The notice is valid for 16 months, and after that period if your Account remains an inactive low balance Account, you will need to complete another declaration every 16 months if you wish your funds to remain in your Account.

If we are required to transfer your benefits to the ATO, we will sell any investments held in your Account to your Cash Hub, and then transfer the benefits to the ATO (net of any applicable fees, costs, and taxes). Please note this may result in a loss for you.

Where an amount is paid to the ATO, the ATO can then proactively pay that amount to an eligible active superannuation account you hold (if any) and notify you (where possible) that this has occurred or continue to hold the amount for you. You can contact the ATO online or by telephone to request the amounts held for you be paid to your nominated preferred superannuation account. If you have met a condition of release, you can request that the amounts held by the ATO be paid to you.

Generally, your Account in Ensurity Super will be an inactive low-balance Account where:

- no amount has been received by Ensurity Super for crediting to that Account for your benefit within the last 16 months,
- the Account balance is less than $6,000,
- you have not met a prescribed condition of release, and
- there is no insurance on the Account.

Your Account will not be an inactive low-balance Account if any of the following have occurred in relation to you in the last 16 months:

- you have changed your Investment Options,
- you have made changes to your insurance coverage,
- you have made or amended a binding beneficiary nomination,
- you have made a written declaration that you are not a Member of an inactive low-balance Account,
- there was an amount owed to us in respect of you (this does not include SG contributions or award contributions), or

- we accepted an amount for you under a successor fund transfer of benefits from another superannuation fund.

Please refer to ato.gov.au/super for further information about inactive low balances. To check if the ATO holds super for you, you can use the ATO's online services available at ato.gov.au/super or by telephoning the ATO on 13 28 65.

Unclaimed Money

In some circumstances, if an amount is payable to you (or your dependant(s)) and we are unable to ensure that you or your dependant(s) will receive it, we may be obliged to transfer the amount to the ATO. We may also be required to transfer your Account balance to the ATO if you become a "lost Member". If your superannuation is transferred to the ATO, the ATO can proactively pay that amount to an eligible active superannuation account you hold (if any) or continue to hold that amount for you. You, (or your dependants where relevant) will be able to reclaim it from the ATO. For more information on unclaimed super money, please refer to ato.gov.au/super.

Part 4: Risks of super

All investing involves some risk. Generally, the higher the expected return, the higher the risk and volatility of your investment. The value of your investment can rise or fall depending on the performance of the underlying investments in a single option, or combination of options. By not planning ahead, you risk outliving your retirement savings. The main risks associated with investing in super are described in this section.

Standard Risk Measure

The Standard Risk Measure (SRM) which is based on industry guidance, allows you to compare Investment Options that are expected to deliver a similar number of negative annual returns over any 20-year period. The Standard Risk Measure does not completely assess all forms of investment risk. For instance, it does not detail what the size of a negative return could be or the potential for a positive return to be less than a Member may require to meet their objectives. Further, it does not take into account the impact of administration fees, costs and tax on the likelihood of a negative return. You should still ensure that you are comfortable with the risks and potential losses associated with your chosen Investment Option(s).

Table 5 – Standard Risk Measure

Risk band	Risk label	Estimated number of negative annual returns over any 20-year period
1	Very Low	Less than 0.5
2	Low	0.5 to less than 1
3	Low to Medium	1 to less than 2
4	Medium	2 to less than 3
5	Medium to High	3 to less than 4
6	High	4 to less than 6
7	Very High	6 or greater

What is your risk profile?

Before deciding which investment choice is most suitable for you, it is important to consider:

- your level of risk tolerance,
- your return expectations, and
- the length of time your super will be invested.

The relationship between risk and expected return

Risk tolerance is your ability to cope with possible losses on your investment. Investment return refers to the amount of money you make (or lose) on an investment.

There is a relationship between risk and expected return. While high-risk investments are more likely to provide higher returns over time, in the short term, they are also more likely to experience larger fluctuations, producing both positive and negative returns. This is known as volatility.

The chart below illustrates the general relationship between risk and expected return.

If you are more concerned with the security of your investment than the level of expected return, you would generally be considered a conservative investor with a low risk tolerance.

If you can tolerate considerable fluctuations in the value of your investments, in anticipation of a higher return over time, you would generally be considered a more aggressive investor with a higher risk tolerance.

What is your investment timeframe?

Your investment timeframe is the length of time left until you start to access your super, plus the length of time you expect to draw a retirement income.

For example, if you are currently aged 40 and you intend to retire at 65 and draw a retirement income until you are 80, then your investment timeframe is 40 years.

Asset classes risk profile

Table 6 below describes the typical risk profile of the various asset classes. These can be accessed directly or through a Managed Fund, such as those available as Investment Options:

Table 6

Asset Class	What is it	Risk profile
Cash	Cash investments are deposits in banks and investments in short term money markets that provide a return in the form of interest payments.	Cash investments are considered to be defensive assets that provide a stable, low risk income. However, cash investments may not provide returns high enough to meet long term goals.
Diversified fixed interest	Fixed interest investments (which include government and corporate bonds) provide a return in the form of interest or coupon payments and capital gain (or loss).	Fixed interest investments are considered to be defensive assets that provide low to moderate risk income with less volatility than other asset classes such as equities and property.
Diversified property	Property investments include investments in property or buildings held either directly or through a trust. They may be listed or unlisted and provide a return in the form of capital gain (or loss) and rental income.	Property investments are considered to be growth assets. While returns are generally higher than cash and fixed interest over the long term, property values can be subject to fluctuations and are therefore considered medium to high risk investments. 		property holdings may also be considered less liquid than other investments.
Equities	Equities, which are also called shares, represent part ownership of a company. They provide a return in the form of capital growth (or loss) and income through dividends.	Equity investments are considered to be growth assets and generally provide a higher return than other asset classes over the long term. However, equities may experience short term volatility and are therefore considered high risk investments.
Alternative investments	Alternative investments include investments in assets not classified above. These can include hedge fund strategies, private equity funds and infrastructure assets. Alternative assets typically have low correlations to other traditional asset classes and therefore as part of an overall portfolio, may help reduce portfolio risk. They can be either defensive or growth assets.	Hedge fund strategies can be used as a substitute for equities although certain strategies exhibit different levels of volatility. Private equity investments are used to provide exposure to higher returns but tend to involve higher risk. Infrastructure investments are used to achieve a return above inflation over the long term. They generally experience less volatility and lower returns than equity investments over the long term.

Other risks

Capital risk

The Trustee and the investment managers do not and cannot guarantee the return of your capital invested or any particular rate of return on your investment in super. The underlying assets in your Account(s) may rise and fall in value over time and there is a risk that you could lose some or all of your capital. Future returns may differ from past returns.

Market risk

This is the risk that the market price of an asset will fluctuate as a result of factors including economic fluctuations, government regulations, market sentiment, local and international political events, and environmental and technological issues. These factors may have a negative impact on investments in the market and could affect investments differently at various times. In the past, Investment Options with higher allocations to growth assets have exhibited greater amounts of market risk.

Inflation risk

The rate of inflation may exceed the return on your investment, decreasing the real purchasing power of the funds you have invested. The Trustee aims to reduce this risk by providing Members with an opportunity to invest in growth assets such as shares and property, as the returns on these assets will generally change in line with inflation over the medium to long term. If you choose to invest in defensive assets such as fixed interest and cash, you may not achieve the same level of protection from inflation risk over the long-term.

Settlement risk

Settlement risk is the risk that one party will fail to deliver the terms of a contract at the time of settlement. Settlement risk is minimised by principally dealing with Australian based entities and other large reputable entities with a history of good business practice.

Interest rate risk

This is the risk that changes in interest rates can have a negative impact on certain investment values or returns. Reasons for interest rate changes are many and include changes in inflation, economic activity, and Reserve Bank of Australia policies. Generally, if interest rates increase, the market value of purchased fixed income securities decreases. When interest rates decrease, fixed income securities may pay lower returns than other investments.

Exchange rate risk

Some investments are exposed to risks associated with movements in exchange rates. Currency movements can have both a positive and negative impact on certain investments. This risk arises because investments which are based overseas, or which are exposed to other countries are often denominated in foreign currencies. When currencies change in value relative to one another, the value of investments based on those currencies can change as well.

Investment managers sometimes aim to 'hedge' some of this risk. This involves some financial arrangements designed to offset changes in currencies. Sometimes derivatives can be used for this purpose.

Unfortunately hedging is not perfect. It is not always successful, is not always used to offset all portfolio currency risk and is sometimes not cost effective or practical to use.

In spite of some potential hedging from time to time, currency risk remains, and currency movements will have both a positive and negative impact on the portfolio.

Derivatives risk

Derivatives are contracts that call for money or assets to change hands at some future date. The level of exposure to a particular investment market is determined by criteria set out in the contract. For example, a contract may say that one person can buy an item from the other at a price specified today, or in six months' time, regardless of the market price.

The Trustee does not enter into any derivatives contracts on its own account. However, external managers may use derivatives instruments and hedging procedures to protect an investment from adverse movements in the investment market but may not gear the investment ('gearing' is a measure of borrowing against assets or borrowing to fund investments).

Risks associated with derivatives include:

- the value of the derivative failing to move in line with the underlying asset,
- the value of the derivative moving contrary to the derivative position taken,
- potential illiquidity of the derivative, and
- counterparty risk, where the counterparty to the derivative contract cannot meet its obligations under the contract.

Fund specific risk

The risks associated with investing in Ensurity Super are that it could terminate, the Trustee may be replaced, or our investment professionals could change. We aim to keep fund risk to a minimum by fulfilling our obligations to act in our Members' best interests and by adhering to a policy of strong corporate governance, compliance, and risk management.

Operational risk

This is the risk that the administration and computer systems that the Trustee and its service providers utilise to administer the Fund may not be available in certain circumstances or may perform otherwise as intended.

Legal and Regulatory risk

Super and taxation laws change frequently, which may affect your ability to access your investment and/or the value of your super or your pension.

Credit risk

Credit risk is the risk of a counterparty being unable to meet its debt repayment obligations.

Investment management risk

This is the risk that changes which occur with respect to an investment manager may affect your investment, such as the investment manager not adhering to their stated investment philosophy or the loss of key staff. There is no guarantee that the investment managers will achieve the objectives stated in the product disclosure statement.

Country/Emerging Markets risk

At times investments may be made in or exposed to emerging countries. Emerging markets can be significantly more volatile than developed markets, so that the value of investments may be subject to large fluctuations. Emerging markets are not always regulated or may not have the same standards of regulation and investments in such markets may be subject to greater risks including custodial and settlement risks.

Valuation risk

The value of investments, as obtained from independent valuation sources, may not accurately reflect the realisable value of those investments.

Leverage risk

Leverage allows investors to acquire more assets by means of borrowed funds or by contracting other liabilities. Consequently, leverage results in higher losses if asset values fall. Investors in Managed Funds and Managed Account Model Portfolios should be aware of disclosed leverage (acquiring assets with borrowed funds) and embedded leverage (involved in assets such as partly paid securities, warrants and Stock Price Index contracts).

Borrowing risk

The Trustee does not borrow but there could be borrowing associated with your investments. Risks associated with borrowing include that it magnifies both good and bad returns, interest rates can change and/ or the lender could suffer financial difficulty.

Liquidity risk

This is the risk that your investment may not be easily converted into cash. The majority of Ensurity Super investments are readily convertible to cash within a week at most. Therefore, the Trustee does not consider that liquidity risk is a major problem in the normal course of events, i.e., when markets are open and trading. However, under extreme market conditions there is still a risk that certain investments may not readily be converted into cash.

Longevity risk

This refers to the risk of outliving your savings. While you can manage this risk with retirement planning, it will be impacted by how long you live, the amount of capital and retirement assets you hold, the level of income you drawdown, any lump sum withdrawals you make, investment returns generated and external risks such as inflation, the economic environment, and regulatory changes.

Labour standards or environmental, social, or ethical considerations

The Trustee does not take into consideration labour standards or environmental, social, or ethical considerations in the selection, retention or realisation of the Fund's investments. However, any investment managers of underlying investments may choose to take into account such considerations when making their investment decisions.

IMPORTANT: Even though the Trustee selects the investments available in the Investment Menu, the Trustee is not making any endorsement of, or recommendation to invest in, any particular investment. You should read the information in this Guide and the

Investing in Investment Options

Provided you have sufficient cash available above the minimum balance required for the Cash Hub, you or your Nominated Representative can use the Cash Hub to invest your super in:

- Managed Funds,
- ASX Listed Securities which you can invest in through the Managed Account,
- Managed Account Model Portfolios which you can invest in through the Managed Account, or
- Term Deposits.

Generally, investment orders received by the cut-off time will be processed on the same Sydney Business Day. Orders received after this time will be processed on the next Business Day. For Managed Account Model Portfolios, the orders will be processed on the following Business Day if the Model Portfolio contains Managed Funds irrespective of the time which the orders are placed, and within 5 Business Days if the Model Portfolio contains International Listed Securities.

How the Cash Hub works

The Cash Hub is an interest-bearing transaction account for Investment Options. Cash is held in the Cash Hub for you, along with other Members' cash balances. You will earn interest on your cash whilst monies are held in the Cash Hub. The interest earned is variable and historical rates are available in the Secure Online Portal.

The Cash Hub is used for:

- settling purchases and sales for investments,
- collecting income,
- executing deposit and withdrawal requests (provided you have met a condition of release),
- paying for selected corporate actions, and
- paying your tax, insurance premiums, fees and charges for investments and any other deductions.

To invest in any Investment Option, you must have a Cash Hub open at all times and maintain the minimum balance required (see below). We can sell assets to maintain this balance. Refer to the section entitled "Topping up the Cash Hub" in Part 5 for more information.

The funds in the Cash Hub are held on deposit with National Australia Bank Limited ABN 12 004 044 937, AFSL and Australian Credit Licence 230686 (NAB), and are held in custody by Equity Trustees Limited. OneVue Wealth manages and operates the Cash Hub under authority from Equity Trustees Limited. We will not withdraw any part of your money except at your or your Nominated Representative's direction.

Minimum Cash Hub balance

The minimum balance is currently $2,500 plus:

- three-months' pension payments if you have a Pension Account, and/or
- three-months' insurance premium payments if you have Group or Retail insurance in place.

You must have available cash in the Cash Hub before placing investment instructions. The available cash will be calculated and displayed on the Secure Online Portal and amended when the information we receive changes. Your available cash displayed on the Secure Online Portal is your Cash Hub balance minus the required minimum Cash Hub amount.

Cash held in the Managed Account Model Portfolios is excluded from the calculated minimum Cash Hub balance.

You can only transfer available cash from your Cash Hub. Proceeds from the sale of investments can take time to be processed and may not be immediately available for you to transfer.

Topping up the Cash Hub

You can monitor the Cash Hub balance via the Secure Online Portal. If the balance is below the minimum level, we may restore the minimum balance by selling investments in your Account in the following order:

- first, Managed Fund investments, starting from the highest value,
- second, Managed Account Model Portfolios held in the Managed Account, starting from the highest value, and
- third, ASX Listed Securities held in the Managed Account, starting from the highest value.

IMPORTANT: Cash held in the Cash Hub through your Super or Pension Account is not covered by the Government guarantee (Financial Claims Scheme).

Managed Funds

You can access a broad range of Managed Funds issued by leading investment managers. Depending on your preferences, you can choose Managed Funds from the Investment Menu available via the Secure Online Portal free of charge or on request from the Trustee. The Trustee reserves the right to change the Managed Funds available from time to time.

The minimum investment per Managed Fund is $1,000, and the minimum withdrawal amount is $1,000. Holding limits also apply – refer to the Investment Menu available in the Secure Online Portal for details.

Income received from your investment in a Managed Fund will be directed to your Cash Hub.

The full list of Managed Funds and their associated disclosure documents is available via the Secure Online Portal.

How we select the available Managed Funds

The Managed Funds we select must be registered under the Corporations Act, must meet certain practical operational criteria, such as Managed Fund size and demand, unit pricing, service level requirements and must belong to an appropriate dispute resolution scheme. We aim to give you a wide choice of investments.

Details about the issuing of units in the Managed Funds and the process by which the unit price is determined, and more specific information about the risks and benefits of investing will be found in the product disclosure statement for the Managed Fund you are investing in, available in the Secure Online Portal.

Fees and other costs

It is important you understand the fees and costs for any Managed Funds you choose to invest in, and that those fees and costs will be in addition to the fees that apply to your Ensurity Super Account(s).

Fees and costs for the Managed Funds you choose are set out in the product disclosure statement for that product, available in the Secure Online Portal.

Managed Account

The Managed Account is a registered managed investment scheme ARSN 112 517 656. OneVue Wealth is the responsible entity. Through the Managed Account, you can invest your super in:

- Managed Account Model Portfolios, and

Selling Investments

You or your Nominated Representative (on your behalf) can sell your investments via the Secure Online Portal.

Investment Options

Proceeds from investments sold will be settled to the Cash Hub and will be available to re-invest when they become cleared funds.

The time it takes to redeem Managed Fund investments depends on the Managed Fund you have chosen. You should read the product disclosure statement for the relevant investment carefully.

Minimum withdrawal amounts

A minimum withdrawal of $1,000 applies for Managed Funds.

Minimum withdrawal amounts also apply for investments in the Managed Account – refer to the product disclosure statement for the Managed Account available on the Secure Online Portal for further details.

Sales of investments can be delayed

In extreme market conditions (such as a closure of a market, including if a Managed Fund has been closed or frozen to redemption requests) delays in processing a sale of an investment may occur.

Early Term Deposit withdrawals

Under limited circumstances, you may request to redeem your Term Deposit before it matures. You or your Nominated Representative will need to contact us, and your request will be processed in accordance with the terms offered by the provider, which may result in a reduction in the applicable earning rate or in a fee charged by the provider.

Please read the Terms and Conditions of the relevant Term Deposit and consult your financial adviser to determine the benefits and disadvantages of early redemption.

Regular Investment Plan and Regular Payment Plan

If you invest in Investment Options, you can choose to have:

- a Regular Investment Plan, allows you to invest any available cash from your contributions, income and distributions received in the Cash Hub (subject to meeting your minimum balance requirement) automatically into your selected eligible investments, and/ or
- a Regular Payment Plan, which allows you to automatically sell down your selected eligible investments into the Cash Hub.

Consumer Advisory Warning

Did you know?

Small differences in both investment performance and fees and costs can have a substantial impact on your long term returns.

For example, total annual fees and costs of 2% of your Account balance rather than 1% could reduce your final return by up to 20% over a 30-year period (for example, reduce it from $100,000 to $80,000).

You should consider whether features such as superior investment performance or the provision of better Member services justify higher fees and costs. You or your employer, as applicable, may be able to negotiate to pay lower fees¹. Ask the Fund or your financial adviser.

To find out more

If you would like to find out more, or see the impact of the fees based on your own circumstances, the Australian Securities and Investments Commission (ASIC) website (moneysmart.gov.au) has a superannuation fee calculator to help you check out different fee options.

This document shows the fees and other costs that you may be charged. These fees and other costs may be deducted directly from your money, from the returns on your investment or from the assets of the superannuation entity as a whole. The fees and costs included in the 'fees and other costs summary' relate to fees and costs charged by the Fund only and do not include fees and costs relating to the underlying Investment Options available through the Fund. The fees and costs will depend on the Investment Options you select. The underlying Investment Options fees and costs can be found in the relevant disclosure document for the particular investment, available in the Secure Online Portal free of charge or on request from the Trustee or your financial adviser.

Other fees, such as activity fees, advice fees for personal advice and insurance fees may also be charged, but these will depend on the nature of the activity, advice or insurance chosen by you. Entry and exit fees cannot be charged. Taxes are set out in Part 7 of this document and insurance fees and other costs relating to insurance are set out in the Insurance Guide.

You should read all the information about fees and other costs because it is important to understand their impact on your investment. Details about the fees and costs disclosed here can be found in this Guide in the ‘fees and other costs summary’, and ‘additional explanation of fees and other costs’.

All fees disclosed are GST inclusive and the Fund may be eligible for reduced input tax credits (RITCs). Definitions of fees and costs are set out in Part 6, under ‘additional explanation of fees and other costs’ of this Guide.

¹ The fees and costs summary table outlines the fees and costs applicable to gaining access to the Fund and does not include the fees and costs that relate to investing in the underlying Investment Options. Investment fees and costs of the underlying Investment Options are based on the expenses incurred over the previous financial year. As a result, these figures are indicative only and may change in subsequent years depending on (for example) the performance of each option, therefore may be higher or lower. Refer to the relevant disclosure document for fees and other costs that apply to each underlying Investment Option in the Fund.

² Information on performance fees is set out under Part 6 ‘additional explanation of fees and other costs’ of this Guide. Performance Fees may be applicable to the Managed Account Model Portfolio and other underlying Investment Options if a particular return is achieved. The relevant product disclosure statement or other disclosure document will set out information on the performance fee (if applicable).

³ There are no transaction costs paid by the Fund. Refer to Part 6 ‘additional explanation of fees and other costs’ of this Guide for further information.

⁴ The Fund does not charge Buy/Sell spreads. The buy-sell spread is a mechanism to recover transaction costs in relation to the purchase or sale of assets when money moves into, or out of an underlying Investment Option. The buy-sell spread may change without notice to meet changes in the transaction costs, including in circumstances of adverse market conditions.

Example of annual fees and other costs

This table gives an example of how the fees and costs for the Allan Gray Australia Balanced Fund can affect your super investment over a one-year period. The administration fees and other costs in this table apply to Selected Managed Funds. You should use this table to compare this superannuation product with other superannuation products.

Example: Allan Gray Australia Balanced Fund		Balance of $50,000
Administration fees and costs	Asset based on all investments excluding Selected Managed Funds: 0.23% p.a. (only charged on the Cash Hub balance as Selected Managed Funds are excluded) PLUS Account keeping fee: $150 p.a. PLUS Expense Recovery fee: 0.03% + $50 p.a. per Account	For every $50,000 you have in the superannuation product, you will be charged or have deducted from your investment $220.75 in administration fees and costs each year.
PLUS Investment fees and costs	All other Investment Options: 0.00% p.a. Cash Hub: 0.75% p.a.	And , you will be charged or have deducted from your investment $18.75 in investment fees and costs each year.
PLUS Transaction costs	0.00% p.a.	And , you will be charged or have deducted from your investment $0.00 in transaction costs.
EQUALS Cost of product	If your balance was $50,000, then for that year you will be charged fees of $239.50 for the superannuation product. What it costs will depend on the Investment Option you choose.

You should also note the following about the example:

- Assumes a Cash Hub balance of $2,500, being the minimum required,
- This example only shows the fees and costs that relate to accessing the investment through the superannuation product and does not include the underlying fees charged by the Fund Manager, which is 0.76% p.a. at the time of this Guide, as well as a performance fee which accrues at the rate of 20.3% of the outperformance over the Managed Funds benchmark (net of fees), subject to a high water mark (which represents the highest level of outperformance, net of management fees and costs, since the Funds inception).
- Based on the $50,000 fees and costs example, allowing for your minimum Cash Hub balance of $2,500, for $47,500 invested in the Managed Fund, this would add $361 to the annual cost of your Investment Option, plus the applicable performance fee of 0.15% of the net average value of the Fund which will add $71.25 to the annual cost of your Investment Option. The performance fee is a reasonable estimate of the performance fee based on the average of the actual performance fees over the previous five financial years, representing the length of time since inception. Please read the relevant product disclosure statement for updated fees,
- This example does not include the underlying buy/sell spread charged by the Fund Manager, which is 0.20% p.a. at the time of this Guide. Based on the $50,000 fees and costs example, allowing for your minimum Cash Hub balance of $2,500 and application investment of $47,500 will incur $95 buy spread (this will equal to $95 for every $47,500 redemption from this investment), and
- The actual cost of the product may be significantly more or less, depending on the Investment Options you choose for your portfolio.

Additional explanation of fees and other costs

Administration fees and costs

Asset based administration fees and costs

The asset based administration fee and cost is tiered, is charged on all investments excluding any balances in Selected Managed Funds and is based on the average daily balance, and deducted from your Account monthly and on exit, pro-rata by the number of days in the month.

Account keeping fee

The Account keeping fee is calculated daily and deducted from your Cash Hub monthly and on exit, pro-rata by the number of days in the month.

Expense Recovery fee reserve

The Trustee maintains an Expense reserve which is applied towards the costs of expenses that apply to the Fund as a whole which are not already accounted for in the administration fees and costs and for which the Trustee is entitled to reimbursement out of the Fund. These expenses may include for example, compliance costs, government taxes, duties and levies, legal expenses, professional advice costs, and audit charges.

Operational Risk Financial Reserve (ORFR)

This fee may include the Operational Risk Financial Reserve (ORFR) which the Trustee is required to maintain under superannuation law, to address losses arising from operational risks such as a computer system failure, human error in administration processes, or the risk of external events, such as a fraud. If an operational risk event occurs, this capital can be used to compensate Members for losses.

Disclosure of reserves

Reserves must be disclosed in the Fees and other costs summary if amounts credited are less than expenses for the reporting period for the applicable type of fee or cost associated with that reserve. Reserves are not required to be disclosed in the Fees and other costs summary as long as the amounts credited to reserves exceed expenses paid from the reserve for the applicable type of fee or cost associated with that reserve.

Investment fees and costs

Investments in the single and multi-sector Investment Options are subject to investment fees and costs. Investment fees and costs are based on a number of factors and will vary from time to time. There are no investment fees or costs for term deposits or listed securities. They also include indirect investment costs. Indirect investment costs are those costs which are not paid directly out by the Trustee. Some investment costs will be known by the Trustee, while for others, the Trustee may reasonably estimate the cost. These investment costs are deducted daily in the calculation of unit prices. They may include costs incurred in or by an interposed vehicle. Indirect investment costs differ between Investment Options. These costs are based on numerous factors including the complexity of the Investment Options that are involved, the different asset classes and investment managers that make up the Investment Option(s). Investment fees and costs are based on estimated and actual information from the previous financial year. The information was obtained from investment managers in relation to the indirect investment fees and costs. Fees and costs payable may be higher or lower.

Investment fees and costs include fees in payment for the exercise of care and expertise in the investment of assets (including performance fees), costs that relate to the investment of the assets of the Fund that are met through the use of reserves, and indirect costs that relate to the investment of assets in the Fund. They do not include transaction costs, or activity fees.

Cash Hub investment fees and costs

The Cash Hub investment cost charged to you is paid to OneVue Wealth in relation to its cash management activities as the platform administrator and custodian. It equals the interest earned on your funds in the Cash Hub less the interest you receive in the Cash Hub. The interest rate you receive in the Cash Hub is on average, the RBA Cash rate less 0.50%. The interest is calculated on your daily Cash Hub balance and credited to your Cash Hub monthly. The latest available interest rate you earn on funds held in the Cash Hub can be found in the Secure Online Portal.

Investment fees and costs of underlying Investment Options

For Managed Funds, investments in the Managed Account in Managed Account Model Portfolios and ASX Listed Securities such as ETFs and LICs, underlying fees may be charged by fund manager, portfolio investment manager or the product provider, as applicable. These fees and costs are in addition to the fees and costs described in this document and could include investment management fees, performance fees, contribution/withdrawal fees, investment fees and costs, brokerage and buy/sell spread.

You should refer to the underlying Investment Option product disclosure statements for the particular investment. Those disclosure statements are available via the Secure Online Portal.

Performance fee

The Fund does not charge any performance fees. However, the underlying Investment Options offered by the Fund may charge a performance fee. Performance fees increase the fees and costs for a superannuation product. Given performance fees are tied to the performance of the assets, they are difficult to predict from year to year, and can be higher or lower. Please refer to the underlying fund disclosure documents for more information.

Transaction costs

Transaction costs are associated with acquiring or disposing of assets. In the 'Fees and other costs summary' transaction costs are shown net of amounts recovered by the buy/sell spread charged. Transaction costs may include costs such as brokerage, buy/sell spreads of the underlying investments (where applicable), settlement costs (including settlement related custody costs), stamp duty on investment transaction costs and clearing costs. The Fund does not charge transaction costs. Underlying Investment Options may charge transaction costs, and those transactional costs will differ between Investment Options. You should refer to the underlying product disclosure statements for the particular investment. Those disclosure statements are available via the Secure Online Portal.

Member activity related fees

Brokerage

Brokerage fees may be charged to you and are paid to OneVue Wealth as the responsible entity of the Managed Account to cover buying and selling ASX Listed Securities or International Listed Securities including within a Managed Account Model Portfolio and may include government taxes. Please refer to the product disclosure statement for the Managed Account for details.

Buy/sell spread

The buy-sell spread is a mechanism to recover transaction costs in relation to the purchase or sale of assets when money moves into, or out of an Investment Option. The buy-sell spread may change without notice to meet changes in the transaction costs, including in circumstances of adverse market conditions.

We do not charge a buy/sell spread for investments, however, some investments such as Managed Funds may have their own buy/sell spread. Please refer to the product disclosure statement for the particular Managed Fund you choose, available through the Secure Online Portal, for details.

Switching fee

A switching fee recovers the costs of switching all or part of a Members Account in the Fund from one product or Investment Option to another. We do not charge a switching fee.

There is no withdrawal fee if you withdraw your Account. Buy-sell spread, and brokerage fees may still apply, depending on your investments. Fees may also be charged by the relevant institution for early termination of a Term Deposit investment.

Transactional costs will differ between Investment Options. You should refer to the underlying product disclosure statements for the particular investment. Those disclosure statements are available via the Secure Online Portal.

Adviser services fees

You may agree to pay an adviser services fee from Ensurity Super for services provided to you by your financial adviser. This is for you to agree with your adviser. Your adviser must disclose to you any benefits they receive in relation to your super, including all fees and costs that you have negotiated with them. The adviser services fee may be deducted from your Account, with your agreement. If you agree to pay such fees from your Account, we require a signed acknowledgement from you that that is the case, to be uploaded as part of the online application process. Your adviser must review and update the adviser service fee agreement with you every 12 months.

The adviser services fee is limited to an initial or transactional fee of up to $5,500 in one-off fees per annum. The ongoing adviser service fee is limited of up to 2.20% of your Account balance. These fees will appear in the Statement of Advice or other disclosure documents provided to you by your financial adviser. Alternatively, you may negotiate ongoing fees with your financial adviser as a fixed dollar amount, subject to the above maximums.

You can instruct us to change or cease payments to your adviser at any time. This instruction must be received by us in writing. Where you enter into an agreement with your financial adviser for adviser services fees, it is possible that your financial adviser may transfer the advisory services they provide you to another financial adviser. This may occur in circumstances such as, but not limited to, your financial adviser retiring, changing roles, merging advice practices, or selling all or part of their practice. Your adviser services fee arrangements will continue to be paid to the new financial adviser unless you instruct us otherwise.

The Trustee reserves the right to contact either you or your financial adviser to confirm that:

- You authorised the deductions to be made from your Account,
- The deductions are consistent with the authorisations and disclosures provided to you by your adviser,
- You've been provided the services for which the fees relate to,
- The adviser fees deducted from your Account only relate to advice and or services relating solely to your superannuation or insurance within superannuation and
- The fees deducted from your Account for the advice services are in your best interest.

Family Pricing

Family Pricing is only available to Members of Ensurity Super who are investing through a financial adviser. Up to 6 Family Members who have the same financial adviser can apply to have their Ensurity Super and Ensurity Invest Accounts linked as a Family Group to aggregate their average daily balances across all investments.

If the Ensurity Super and Ensurity Invest Accounts are linked, the asset-based administration fees and costs are calculated on the aggregate average daily balance of the linked Accounts and then applied proportionally to each linked Account, according to the share of the aggregated balance. In this way, a lower asset-based administration fee and cost may apply, depending on the aggregate average daily balance of all linked Accounts. The Account keeping fee and any other fees that apply are not included in this arrangement and will continue to apply to each Account, as relevant.

In order for the Ensurity Super and Ensurity Invest Accounts to qualify for Family Group Pricing, the holder of the Account must be a Family Member (see definition).

OneVue Wealth reserves the right to determine whether Accounts may be linked in any Family Group, or whether to reject a request. OneVue Wealth may also cancel the linking of Accounts and change these terms at any time.

Examples

Sue and Bob are married, and both have Ensurity Super Accounts with the same financial adviser. They have balances of $500,000 and $800,000 respectively. The tables below show what their total annual administration fees and costs would be, first without and then with family linked pricing:

Without Family Pricing

	Fee Calculation	Administration Fees and costs
Sue (balance of $500,000)	$$250,000 \times 0.23\%$ $$250,000 \times 0.16\%$ + $150 Account keeping fee	$1,125 p.a.
Bob (balance of $800,000)	$$250,000 \times 0.23\%$ $+$250,000 \times 0.16\%$ $+$300,000 \times 0.11\%$ + $150 Account keeping fee	$1,455 p.a.
Total administration fees and costs		$2,580 p.a.

With Family Pricing

	Fee Calculation	Administration Fees and costs
Sue + Bob (balance of $1.3 million)	$$250,000 \times 0.23\%$ $+ $250,000 \times 0.16\%$ $+ $500,000 \times 0.11\%$ $+ $300,000 \times 0.05\%$ $+ $150$ Account keeping fee $+ $150$ Account keeping fee	$1,975 p.a.
Total administration fees and costs		$1,975 p.a. Sue's fee charge is: $$644.23 + $150 = $794.23$ Bob's fee charge is: $$1,030.77 + $150 = $1,180.77$

The above examples:

- assume that neither Account holds investments in Selected Managed Funds.
- assumes that the average daily balances do not change,
- does not include expense recovery fee which is charged at $50 plus 0.03% for the first $1m (the expense recovery fee is not subject to Family Pricing) and
- individual Account holder fees charged based on the calculated amount proportioned to the individual Accounts based on the share of the combined balance.

Our fee arrangements

The total fees that you pay as a Member as disclosed in this Product Disclosure Statement are paid to service providers who provide services in respect to the Fund.

By investing in the Fund, you authorise a payment of the Promoter fees to OneVue Wealth. As at the date of this Guide, the Promoter fees are as follows:

- 0.08% p.a. paid from the asset-based administration fees and costs, and
- A flat $11.00 per insured Member from the retail insurance establishment fee if applicable, and a flat $11.00 p.a. per insured Member from the retail insurance administration fee.

OneVue Wealth in its capacity as the Promoter of the Fund and Platform Operator receives a portion of the total fees that you pay after payment of Trustee fees and service providers' fees as remuneration for its services as a Promoter, and Platform Operator.

Fee changes

The level of fees and costs can change from time to time. The Trustee may introduce new fees or change existing fees at any time. The Trustee will notify you at least 30 days before we introduce new fees, if the changes are materially adverse to you, or if we increase existing fees, other than buy-sell spreads and investment fees costs. These changes are available in the Secure Online Portal, and you should check for the most up to date information before making any decisions.

Fee cap for low Account balances

A Member with an Account balance of less than $6,000 on the last day of the financial year that the Member holds an Account balance with the Fund (i.e., 30 June or earlier if the Member exits the Fund) ('relevant date') will not pay more than 3% of the balance of their Account on the relevant date in capped fees and costs over the year.

If the total amount of capped fees and costs charged to a Member is more than 3% of the Account balance on the relevant date, the Trustee must refund the difference to the Member's Account within three months of the end of the Fund's income year. Capped fees and costs include the investment fees and costs, administration fees and costs and the investment fees and costs.

Goods and services tax (GST):

All fees and charges quoted are inclusive of GST (where applicable). The Fund is entitled to claim reduced input tax credits (RITC) on certain fees and costs, and these are paid to the Fund. Refer to Part 7 - How super is taxed of this Guide.

Part 7: How super is taxed

Part 7 gives a general overview of the taxation of super. The information and rates referred to in Part 7 can change from time to time. Please refer to the Super caps, rates, and thresholds fact sheet available via the Secure Online Portal or go to ato.gov.au/super for the latest update.

As taxation is complex, we recommend that you obtain professional financial advice tailored to your personal circumstances before making any decisions.

Depending on your circumstances, superannuation can be subject to tax on contributions, earnings and withdrawals.

Tax on contributions

The tax you pay on your contributions will depend on whether it's a concessional or non-concessional contribution, and whether you have exceeded the respective contribution caps.

Concessional contributions are taxed in the Fund, generally at the rate of 15% (provided you have supplied your TFN) which is deducted at the time the contribution is received by Ensurity Super. If you choose not to provide your TFN, additional tax will apply.

If you are a high income earner you may pay an additional tax (Division 293 tax) directly to the ATO. If you are liable for this tax the ATO will notify you after the end of the financial year. Refer to ato.gov.au for more information about this tax.

Non-concessional contributions within the prescribed contribution caps are not subject to tax.

Excess contributions

From 1 July 2021, if you exceed your concessional contributions cap limit will no longer be liable to pay the excess concessional contributions tax. For the financial years 2013-2014 to 2020-21, if you exceeded the concessional contribution cap, you would generally be charged further tax at your individual marginal tax rate on the excess contributions, less a 15% offset for the tax already paid in the Fund, and an interest charge. You have the choice to withdraw some or all of the excess from your super – if you do not do so, the excess amount is also counted towards your non-concessional contributions cap.

If you exceed the non-concessional contribution cap, you can choose to withdraw the excess contributions and any associated earnings. The earnings are then included in your income tax return and taxed at your marginal tax rate. If you don't withdraw the earnings, the excess is taxed at the highest marginal rate of tax plus Medicare Levy (and any other applicable levies).

IMPORTANT: It is your responsibility to ensure you do not exceed your contribution caps. It is not possible for us to monitor your overall position.

Information on tax deductions

The Fund may be eligible to claim a tax deduction for certain expenses incurred and for insurance premiums paid for insurance cover for eligible Members. Where we are eligible to claim a tax deduction for insurance premiums and for expenses related to the fees charged to you, the benefits of these tax deductions are passed on to you.

Claiming a tax deduction for personal contributions

Generally, you can claim a tax deduction for your voluntary (personal) contributions (not salary sacrifice contributions) if you meet work test eligibility criteria. For financial years 2022-2023 onwards, if you are aged less than 75 years you will not need to meet work test or work test exemptions for your super fund to be able to accept most types of contributions. In earlier financial years, and if you were between the ages of 65 to 74 inclusive for financial years 2019-2020, and between the ages of 67 to 74 inclusive for financial years 2020-21 to 2021-22, you will need to meet the work test or the work test exemption eligibility in the financial year in which you make the contribution. The voluntary contributions that you claim a deduction for will count towards your concessional contribution cap.

Before you can claim a deduction, you must:

- meet the work test or work test exemption eligibility criteria,
- give the Fund a Notice of intent to claim or vary a deduction for personal super contributions form (Notice of Intent), available at ato.gov.au, and
- receive an acknowledgment from the Fund that your Notice of Intent is valid.

There are additional requirements for making a valid Notice of Intent, including that you are still a Member of the Fund, and the Fund still holds the contribution. Special rules apply for full or partial voluntary rollovers and situations where there has been a successor fund transfer or a MySuper transfer. Refer to ato.gov.au/super for further details of these requirements.

You must lodge your completed Notice of Intent with the Fund by the earlier of:

- the date you lodge your income tax return for the financial year in which you make the contribution, or
- 30 June of the next financial year.

If you wish to split contributions with your spouse and claim a deduction, you must lodge the Notice of intent before or at the same time as you lodge the application to split the contributions.

Tax on investment earnings

Earnings on your Super and Transition to Retirement Pension Accounts are taxed at a maximum rate of 15%. Some capital gains may be taxed at a concessional rate of 10%.

Earnings on your Pension Account are generally not subject to tax. However, if you exceed the Transfer Balance Cap you will need to pay the excess transfer balance tax as detailed below.

If you invest in Managed Funds, or in the Managed Account Model Portfolio investments in the Managed Account, the Fund Manager or investment manager (as applicable) does not pay tax on your investments within the Managed Fund or Managed Account Model Portfolio on behalf of Ensurity Super. Tax on the investments will be calculated and deducted from your Cash Hub monthly. We will apply the same tax treatment for the underlying investments held by each Member within the Managed Funds or Managed Account Model Portfolio (as applicable) as if you held those investments as standalone investments.

Where an investment is sold, and the sale has produced a loss (i.e., a realised capital loss), this loss may be carried forward and used to offset any future gains.

How investment earnings tax is paid

For interest earned from term deposits, the tax is deducted by the issuing financial institution from the interest earned before the proceeds are paid into the Cash Hub or rolled over to a new term deposit.

For investment earnings and distributions from Managed Funds, and investments in ASX Listed Securities and Managed Account Model Portfolios in the Managed Account, a tax liability will be created when the income or distribution is received and will be deducted from the Cash Hub in the annual 'true-up' process, or when you leave Ensurity Super, if you leave part way through a financial year.

Tax on exceeding the Transfer Balance Cap

If you exceed the Transfer Balance Cap ($1.7 million for the 2022/2023 financial year), you may have to remove excess amounts plus excess transfer balance earnings. These earnings accrue until the excess is removed and are determined by the ATO based on the general interest charge.

If you exceed the Transfer Balance Cap for one or more days, you are liable to pay excess transfer balance tax. This tax is generally calculated on your excess transfer balance earnings from the day you first exceed the cap to the date of rectification.

The tax rate is 15% for the first incident of excess and 30% for each subsequent incident.

Part 10: Key definitions	►

You can remove excess amounts and any associated earnings from your Pension Account by either transferring them back to a superannuation accumulation Account or by making a lump sum withdrawal.

Tax components

Superannuation Accounts are generally divided into two components for tax purposes, a tax-free component, and a taxable component.

Tax on lump sum benefits

The tax-free component of lump sum payments is tax free.

For the taxable component, the below tax treatment applies:

Table 12 – Tax treatment of taxable component

Under preservation age	20% plus applicable levies
Over preservation age and under 60	Tax free up to the low rate cap amount ¹ , the balance taxed at 15% plus applicable levies
Age 60 and over	Tax free

Tax when you rollover your super from another fund

Generally, you will not have to pay tax on any money you have rolled over from another fund unless the amount contains an untaxed element. Any untaxed element will be taxed at 15%. Typically, this will only apply if you are transferring from an untaxed super fund (usually public sector funds). There are no taxes for rolling over from a Super Account to a Pension Account.

Tax on pension payments

Your pension payments generally consist of a taxable component and tax-free component. The tax you may pay on the taxable component will depend on your age, however, you do not pay tax on your tax-free component regardless of your age.

¹ For the current low rate cap, please refer to the Pension caps, rates and thresholds fact sheet which is available via the Secure Online Portal.

If you are age 60 or over, pension payments are generally tax free. You will not need to include these payments in your tax return.

If you are aged under 60, the below tax treatment applies to the taxable component.

Table 13 – Tax treatment of pension taxable component under age 60

Under preservation age	Your marginal tax rate and Medicare levy
Over preservation age and under 60	Your marginal tax rate and Medicare levy, less 15% tax offset

Social security

To be eligible for the Age Pension or Veteran's Service, you must meet a range of requirements, including an assets test and an income test.

Your Pension Account balance is currently included in the assets test. Similarly, your Pension payments are also assessed against the income test.

In assessing your Pension payments, the deeming rules that apply under the income test are the same as those that currently apply to financial investments outside of super.

'Deeming' assumes that the pension earns a certain rate of income. The actual income from the pension is not used for the income test assessment, even if the income earned is above (or below) the deeming rates.

For current deeming rates and thresholds please refer to the Pension caps, rates and thresholds fact sheet which is available on the Secure Online Portal or go to humanservices.gov.au for information on the Age Pension or go to dva.gov.au for information on Veterans' Service Pensions.

In addition, from 1 January 2015, if you (or your partner) stop receiving income support payments, your pension may be reassessed using the deeming rules if you receive these payments again in the future.

As the taxation and Social Security implications of super pensions can be complex, we recommend that you obtain professional financial advice tailored to your personal circumstances before making any decisions.

Tax on terminal illness and death benefits

Terminal illness benefits (both the tax-free component and the taxable component) are tax free.

The tax-free component of a death benefit lump sum payment is tax free. The taxable component of a death benefit lump sum is taxed as follows.

Table 14 – Tax treatment of taxable component of lump sum death benefits

Death Benefits
Paid to a beneficiary who is a dependant for tax purposes	Tax Free
Paid to a beneficiary who is a non-dependant for tax purposes	The taxed element is taxed at 15% plus applicable levies The untaxed element is taxed at 30% plus applicable levies

The tax free component of a reversionary pension is tax free. The taxable component of a reversionary pension is taxed as follows:

Table 15 – Tax treatment of taxable component of reversionary pensions

Reversionary Pensions
If the deceased or the reversionary beneficiary is aged 60 or over	Tax Free
If the deceased and the reversionary are both age under 60	The marginal tax rate and Medicare levy less 15% tax offset Tax Free once the reversionary reaches age 60.

Tax on temporary residents departing Australia

Benefits paid to former temporary residents as a Departing Australia Superannuation Payment (DASP) are subject to tax:

- tax-free component – no tax payable,
- taxable component (taxed element) – taxed at 35%, and
- taxable component (untaxed element) – taxed at 45%.

If your DASP includes any amounts attributable to super contributions made while you held a Working Holiday Maker visa, the tax rate for the whole DASP is 65% from 1 July 2017. This rate applies to both the taxed and untaxed element of the taxable component.

GST and Reduced Input Tax Credits

All fees and costs referred to in the PDS are inclusive of GST, unless expressly stated otherwise. We may be able to claim reduced input tax credits (RITC) of up to 75% of the GST paid on some of these fees. This may include fees for certain brokerage services, investment portfolio management, administrative functions, Adviser services fees and fees for custodial services. These fees are paid to the Fund.

out of your Account. When you apply to open an Account with Ensurity Super or transfer from a Super Account to open a Pension Account, we require you to provide certified identification documents.

Generally, providing us with a certified copy of your current Australian driver's licence or your current passport is the most straightforward way to confirm your identity. If you do not provide the necessary documents, we will not be able to process your application or action your cashing transaction request.

Why you are asked to provide your TFN

The online application to join Ensurity Super asks you to provide your TFN.

It is not compulsory to provide your TFN, however if you choose not to do so, higher tax will apply to your concessional contributions, and we cannot accept personal contributions from you. Also, the tax on super benefits may be higher and it may not be possible to locate any lost super benefits or to combine your superannuation accounts or transfer your super benefits to another complying fund.

We are authorised to collect your TFN under the Superannuation (Supervision) Act 1993, Australian Taxation Act 1997, in compliance with the Australian Privacy Principles. You can notify us in writing not to record your TFN.

TFNs are used for legal purposes only. This includes finding or identifying your super benefits where other information is not sufficient, calculating tax on super payments and providing information to the ATO. These purposes may change in line with legislation.

If you provide your TFN, we may provide it to another super fund or retirement savings account provider that receives any of your transferred super benefits in the future, unless you notify us in writing not to forward your TFN. Your TFN may also be given to the ATO.

Cooling-off period

When you join Ensurity Super, you have a 14- day cooling-off period if you change your mind. You can cancel your membership in writing within 14 days from the earlier of:

- 5 days after your application is accepted, or
- the date we confirm your membership in writing.

We will refund an amount to you (if you are entitled to access your super) or transfer an amount to your nominated complying super fund. The amount refunded may be decreased or increased according to market movements during that time. We may also deduct any reasonable transaction and administrative costs, tax or duty incurred. Fees you have agreed to pay your financial adviser may also be deducted.

Note: if you do not nominate a suitable fund within 28 days, your Account balance will be transferred to the ATO.

Where your super is transferred to the ATO, the ATO can then proactively pay that amount to an eligible active superannuation Account you hold (if any) and notify you (where possible) that this has occurred or continue to hold the amount for you. You can contact the ATO online or by telephone to request the amounts held for you be paid to your nominated preferred superannuation Account. If you have met a condition of release, you can request that the amounts held by the ATO be paid to you.

Appointing your financial adviser as your Nominated Representative

If you are investing in Ensurity Super through a financial adviser, your financial adviser must be registered with OneVue Wealth to use the Secure Online Portal and appointed as your Nominated Representative to operate your Ensurity Super Account(s) on your behalf. Your adviser makes a declaration that you have done so when completing the Online Application on your behalf.

Your financial adviser (or their staff) is your primary point of contact and any queries that you have concerning your super investments held in the Ensurity Super Account should be directed to them in the first instance.

Appointing your financial adviser as your Nominated Representative allows them to provide instructions to us on your behalf including transacting via the Secure Online Portal.

What can your Nominated Representative do?

Appointing your financial adviser as your Nominated Representative allows them to exercise all of the rights you have in relation to your Ensurity Super Account (s) and investments, (except the right to transfer that authorisation to another person, close your Account or change your Nominated Bank Account details), including to:

- access your Personal Information we hold,
- change your personal details provided they give us a signed instruction from you (please see below for details),
- provide instructions to us relating to your Ensurity Super Account(s) and investments,
- execute investment decisions on your behalf via the Secure Online Portal,
- make enquiries regarding your investments, and
- request withdrawals from the Cash Hub to your nominated bank account (for Pension payments or where you have met a condition of release).

When such instructions are provided to us by your Nominated Representative, they are binding on you and we are entitled to assume that they are made with your authority. We are under no obligation to query the accuracy or authenticity of any order or instruction placed by your Nominated Representative except where that instruction is obviously incomplete.

Changing or cancelling your Nominated Representative

The appointment of your Nominated Representative continues until you cancel it by giving us instructions in writing. You can do this at any time.

If you wish to appoint a replacement financial adviser as your Nominated Representative, you must notify us in writing, and they must be registered with OneVue Wealth to use the Secure Online Portal.

Transferring super into Ensurity Super

You may want to consolidate your super benefits from a number of super funds into Ensurity Super.

You can search to consolidate your super via the ATO's online services through ato.gov.au.

You can also consolidate your super benefits into Ensurity Super by completing the Roll-In form available in the Secure Online Portal.

To consolidate your super benefits into a Super Account in Ensurity Super complete the Roll-In form available in the Secure Online Portal and at <https://onesuper.com/funds/ensurity-super/>.

To do this for a Pension Account, all benefits must first be consolidated into a Super Account prior to establishing your Pension Account.

Before you commence the consolidation, you should consider:

- any loss of benefits, particularly insurance,
- additional costs,
- investment performance,
- tax,
- estate planning, and
- whether you should seek professional advice.

We do not accept an 'in-specie' transfer request from another super fund, that means, all investments must be redeemed to cash prior to the transfer.

Future contributions

You or your Nominated Representative can give instructions via the Secure Online Portal to have your future super contributions paid into the Cash Hub and from the Cash Hub your contributions can then be automatically invested in any of your preselected Investment Options available on our Investment Menu.

Transferring investments between Accounts

You can request to transfer investments between your Super, Transition to Retirement Pension and Pension Accounts. If an in-specie transfer is requested, the request must be made at the time of application or noted in the Superannuation to pension or TTR pension form. Please note that Term Deposits are unable to be in specie transferred.

When we may decline to act on your instructions

We may choose not to act on your or your Nominated Representative instructions if:

- we suspect that you are in breach of any provisions applying to Ensurity Super described in this PDS,
- your or your Nominated Representative's instructions are unclear or incomplete,
- you do not have the minimum Cash Hub balance in the Cash Hub for instructions to be carried out,
- you do not have sufficient funds or assets in your Account to execute the instruction, or
- your instructions conflict with the law, relevant market practices or the provisions of the Trust Deed for the Fund.

Where, in our opinion, your instructions are incomplete or unclear in relation to an investment, we may need to contact you to clarify or provide further instructions. We may place all of the relevant funds on hold in your Cash Hub while we try to obtain your instructions. We are not liable for any loss that may result from such delays.

Regular Investment Plan & Regular Payment Plan

A Regular Investment Plan allows you to have any available cash from contributions, income and distributions received in the Cash Hub (subject to meeting the minimum balance requirement) automatically invested into your selected eligible investments.

A Regular Payment Plan allows you to automatically sell down your selected eligible investments into the Cash Hub.

For both Plans, you can specify the frequency, timeframe, and investments. Eligible investments are the assets you already have in your Accounts, and which meet the following criteria:

- daily priced Managed Funds,
- Australian Equity Managed Account Model Portfolios, or
- Managed Fund Managed Account Model Portfolios.

Minimum investment and payment amounts apply ranging from $100 to $7,000 depending on the investment. For further details, please refer to the 'Regular Saving and Payment Plan Guide' which is available on the Secure Online Portal.

To close your Account, you can either transfer to another complying super fund, or make a lump sum withdrawal if you meet a condition of release. You need to complete a Withdrawal or rollout form and provide us with all applicable documents. The Withdrawal or rollout form is available in the Secure Online Portal.

We do not permit 'in-specie' transfers to other super funds, therefore, all investments will be redeemed to cash prior to the transfer.

If you are closing a Super Account, you should consider any benefits such as insurance cover you may be losing.

We will not close your Account until any pending settlements, dividends or distributions have been received and credited to your Cash Hub. If at the time of Account closure, you hold an entitlement in an investment that is suspended from trading, you may request the forfeiture of that entitlement to the Trustee.

Your request for Account closure may be delayed for a reasonable period in the following circumstances:

- your investments cannot be easily sold due to a lack of liquidity in the market,
- an event outside of our control prevents us from performing the necessary transaction, or
- we receive an abnormally large number of withdrawal requests.

In the month that your Account is being closed, we reserve the right to not pay interest on your Cash Hub where the amount of interest payable is less than $20.

Data Security

The Trustee is committed to ensuring that your information is kept secure and protected from misuse and loss and from unauthorised access, modification, and disclosure. Our service providers use the internet in operating the Secure Online Portal, and records may be stored in the cloud. The internet does not however always result in a secure information environment, and although we require our service providers to take reasonable steps to protect your information, we cannot absolutely guarantee its security.

We take risk management and security seriously and have procedures in place designed to facilitate effective working of the systems used by our service providers to administer the Fund and deliver the Secure Online Portal. We are also dependent on the accuracy and efficiency of the administration and computer systems of the investment issuers who offer the investments you invest in. They are required to have their own risk management procedures in place. We do not accept responsibility for their or other third-party systems.

Privacy

The Trustee requests personal information from you when you apply to become a Member of Ensurity Super and from time to time in order to administer your interest in the Fund.

If the information we request is not provided, we may not be able to process your application or provide you with some or all of the features of the Fund.

We are required to comply with the Privacy Act and the Australian Privacy Principles. Information about how we collect, use, and disclose your personal information is set out in our Privacy Policy, available at onesuper.com. You can obtain a copy of our Privacy Policy from us free of charge on request. You should read this before you apply.

By applying to join Ensurity Super you are taken to agree to the use and disclosure of your personal information in accordance with our Privacy Policy.

Information about privacy legislation is available at the Office of the Australian Information Commissioner (oaic.gov.au).

You can gain access to your personal information that we hold by contacting us. Availability of this information is subject to some exceptions allowed by law. You will be given reasons if your request is denied.

Part 9: Other important information

Family Law

Part 9 provides general information about how your super could be affected after a relationship breakdown. In the event of a relationship deterioration, it is recommended that you seek legal advice about any effect it may have on your super benefits.

Accumulation or pension benefits of married or de facto couples who are separated or divorced can be divided either by a binding financial agreement or by court order. This allows part, or all of a super or pension benefit to be transferred from one spouse to the other.

The Trustee is required to make any payment from your Super or Pension Account in accordance with a binding agreement or court order. There may be tax consequences as a result of splitting a super or pension benefit in this way and you should seek advice from your tax adviser and/or your legal representative.

Your Account can also be flagged by either an agreement or court order, preventing us from making most types of payments from the Account.

The Trustee is required under legislation, if requested, to provide information regarding your Account to your former spouse or partner and we must not advise you that we have done so.

The Trustee may charge fees for family law enquiries (payable by the person making the enquiry) and family law Account splitting.

How to apply for information: The Family Court of Australia publishes a Superannuation Information Kit containing the paperwork you need to apply for information about your spouse or partner's superannuation or pension fund. The kit can be downloaded at familycourt.gov.au. As matters of superannuation and Family Law can be quite complex, it is recommended that you seek the advice of your legal representative and a qualified financial adviser.

The Fund's Trust Deed

The governing rules of the Fund are set out in The OneSuper Trust Deed, available at onesuper.com.

The Trustee's Board has some powers to alter the Trust Deed. The Trustee will inform you if the Trustee believes that a change to the Trust Deed would have a material adverse impact on Members of the Fund.

You can request a copy of The OneSuper Trust Deed from us free of charge.

What are your rights under the Trust Deed?

The Trust Deed sets out your rights as a Member of the Fund, which include:

The circumstances in which you are entitled to benefits,

- how and when benefits may be paid to you,
- the nature of the investments, and
- how the Trustee must calculate unit prices, and what you are entitled to receive when you withdraw or if the Fund is wound up.

There are also provisions governing the Trustee's powers and duties as Trustee:

- the power to invest, borrow and generally manage the Fund,
- the discretion to refuse transfers and applications,
- the ability to terminate the Fund after giving you notice. Where the Trustee decides to terminate the Fund, the Trustee will distribute the net proceeds (upon sale of all Fund assets after costs) on a pro rata basis to Members of the Fund,
- the ability to retire as trustee if the Trustee has arranged for another appropriate trustee to be appointed in its place, and
- the power to charge fees and recover expenses.

The administration of Ensurity Super (including investments and benefit payments) must always comply with superannuation law, which can change.

Anti-Money Laundering and Counter Terrorism

We are required to comply with the Anti-Money Laundering and Counter Terrorism Financing Act 2006 (Cth) ('AML/CTF Act'). This means we are required to:

- identify you before providing a service or making a payment to you. We may need to collect additional identification information and documents from you and your beneficiaries (known as AML/CTF Documents) before you can open an Ensurity Super Account or if you change your details,
- report suspicious transactions, and
- adopt and maintain an AML/CTF program.

We may not be able to open an Ensurity Super Account for you or invest your funds until we receive the required information and documents, and we may be required to return your funds if we do not receive these within a reasonable time.

In addition, the AML/CTF Act may require us to:

- delay, freeze or refuse to process a transaction or provide a service to you, and
- not inform you of any delay or hold on your Ensurity Super Account.

In these situations, we will not incur any liability to you.

By applying to invest in Ensurity Super, you represent and warrant to the Trustee that:

- you are not investing in the Fund under an assumed name,
- any money you invest is not derived from or related to any criminal activities and any proceeds will not be used in relation to any criminal activities,
- you will not initiate, engage in, or effect a transaction that may be in breach of the AML/CTF Act or sanctions (or the laws or sanctions of any other country),
- if we ask, you will provide us with any additional information we may reasonably require for the purposes of complying with the AML/CTF Act or sanctions, and
- you acknowledge that the Trustee:
 - may not be able to open an Account for you or invest your funds until the required information and documents are received and may return your funds if the required information and documents are not received within a reasonable time,
 - may provide and obtain information about you from third parties if we believe it is necessary to comply with the AML/CTF Act or sanctions, and
 - in order to comply with AML/CTF Act or sanctions, may be required to take actions such as delaying or refusing to process transactions and not inform you of any delay or hold on Account, and that the Trustee will not incur any liability to you in these situations.
